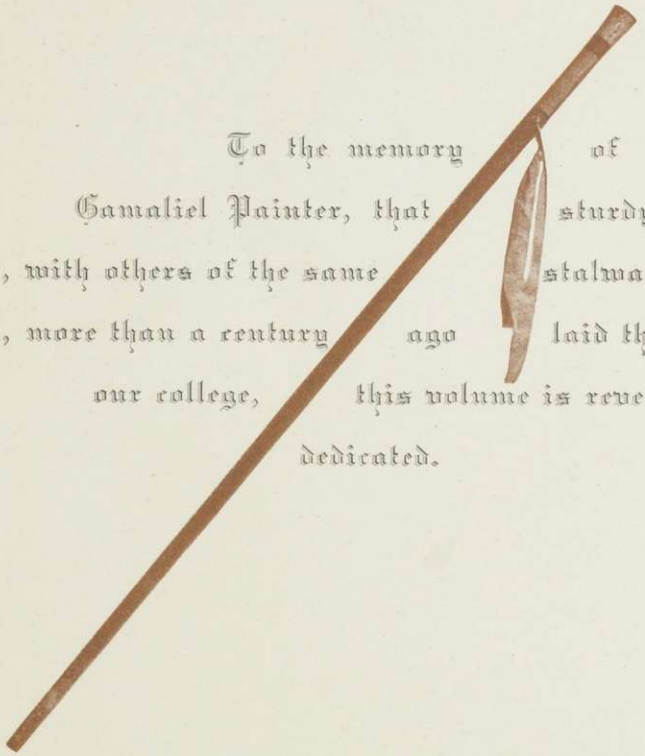
Foreword

THIS, the Twenty-ninth volume of the KALEIDOSCOPE, is published by the class to be graduated in the one hundred and twenty-fifth year of the founding of our noble Alma Mater. With the fitness of such an anniversary in mind, we have attempted to incorporate and infuse into this book the true Middlebury spirit---a spirit emanating from a century and a quarter of active college life and honored educational service amongst the eternal hills of old Vermont. Limned in the softened, but steady-glowing light of the Middlebury of the Past, we have endeavored with picture and pen to delineate in some measure through these pages, the ever-broadening life of the Middlebury of Today.

HON. GAMALIEL PAINTER



To the memory of
Gamaliel Painter, that sturdy pioneer, who, with others of the same stalwart and undaunted will, more than a century ago laid the foundation of our college, this volume is reverently dedicated.

Junior Class History

Since the early fall of 1921, when '24's brass band greeted us at the station, '25 has occupied a central position in the full of Middlebury's limelight. Our men and our women have taken more than their share of honors in all forms of curricula and extra-curricula activities—yet not more than their share for they have justly deserved all of them. Our amenities with the Sophomore class were soon taken up, and although few of us can forget the first rain party and the long, active night preceding the Frosh-Soph football battle, we consistently showed our worth in all class scraps. Our men won their letters and our women became the social lights of the campus. Many of both will soon be privileged to wear the golden key.

Yet we should not go too far with his account of ourselves, for we have for various reasons excluded all other class chronicles from this book.

We believe, however, that we have contributed our part to the life of the college, and that through this participation in its many phases, we have become infused with that indomitable spirit that characterizes Middlebury—the spirit to which this volume is dedicated—the spirit of those men who made of a wilderness a center of learning. So have we made of the wilderness of our inner selves a more coherent whole. May classes which follow appreciate as fully as we what their Alma Mater does for them, and may they practice in the larger world the principles of sturdiness, honesty, and faith that Middlebury teaches.

"Ernie", "Step and a Half"

ERNEST MARVIN ADAMS

Bridgeport, Connecticut

A Σ Φ

Bridgeport High School; Tennis Squad (1); College Jazz Orchestra (1, 2, 3); Dramatic Club (2, 3); College Band (3).

Did Shakespeare first say "It's an ill wind that doesn't fill someone's Christmas stocking?" Well, anyway, whoever did was a prophet, because a coasting party and a tree appearing out of nowhere brought a long absence from Midd for "Ernie" and a good deal of luck for '25, as he dropped in with us. "Ernie" is famous for three reasons: Himself, his tennis, and his banjo. A summer spent as a native Hawaiian with a Chautauqua made him a top-notcher. Our feet begin to move even when we just think of him strumming out the latest dance number. Moonlight nights, HER, a canoe, and "Ernie's" music. Home, Chawles.

KENNETH WESLEY ANDERSON

Milwaukee, Wisconsin

A Σ Φ

South Division High School; Class President (1); Chairman Sophomore Hop Committee (2); Dramatic Club (1, 2, 3), Coach (3); Assistant Cheer Leader (2, 3); Varsity Debating (2); Prize Speaker (2).

"Kenny"

Milwaukee has always been good to us and yet she outdid herself when she sent "Kenny" to Midd. He's absolutely "one of the best." If we rave, forgive us, but "Kenny" deserves it, as he is a most versatile youth. We might call him "the man with the voice" because that part of him is most in evidence. No Dramatic Club production is complete without his finished acting or his equally efficient coaching. Our debating teams demand him, and cheering isn't cheering without him. We didn't need his famous work at the Harvard game to prove that, either. Coupled with his natural talent, a most winning personality and an unusual willingness to work boded well for his future.

A "skyrocket" for the man who made it!

"Mac", "Andy"

MALCOLM TREAT ANDERSON

Wethersfield, Connecticut

K Δ P

Wethersfield Public High School; Wetherell Debating Club (1, 2, 3); Dramatic Club (1, 2); Parker Prize Speaking; Merrill Prize Speaking; English Club (3); Manager of Track; Tau Kappa Alpha; Sages; Wetherell Debating Prize (2).

"Mac," the only original sheik, thrives on love as a bee on honey. His page of life is already gilded with the "affairs" of a good many years' experience, and he makes the story of Bluebeard and his amours look like a fairy tale. The sheik owns a through line to the other side of the hill.

"Mac" is in a good way to perform miracles, too. We used to think the Bible was fibbing when we read stories of burning bushes that never burned up, and men who walked in and out of ovens without being harmed. Well, when you see the magic of "Mac's" ways, his terrific earnestness, his shrewd capability, his industry, then you won't doubt a word we said. Watch him; he'll make Zev look like a rowboat going backwards upstream.

MAX ANTELL

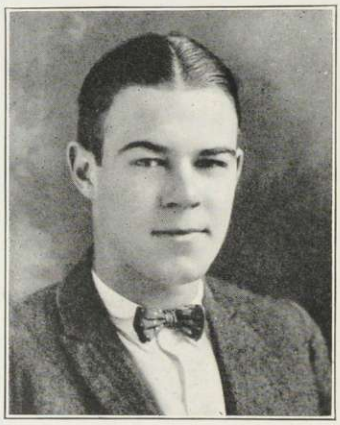
Bridgeport, Connecticut

Bridgeport High School.

"Ax Mantell"

We have with us "Smacks," known throughout the length and breadth of Starr Hall for more or less reasons. He is a quiet sort of a chap, but somebody said something once about still water being deceptive. Speaking of running (who did?) Mac puts the track team to shame when Chapel is a little longer than usual. He doesn't even bother with the paths, for Max and studies are close friends, and a recitation lost is gone forever.

Yet even studies must take an inconspicuous seat in the background when the "boys get together" for "Smacks" has been duly made a member of the ever-growing brotherhood of loyal supporters of Starr Hall.



"Don", "George"

DONALD REMSEN BANKS

Mt. Kisco, New York

K Δ P

Mt. Kisco High School; Delta Tau; Baseball Squad (1, 2); Class Basketball (2); German Club (1, 2); Candidate Assistant Football Manager (2).

There goes "Don"! He of the stately figure and graceful step. Last year "Don" established his residence in the Hall of Fame—Starr, and dealt not wisely, but too well, in succulent bits of chocolate and in cigarettes. The turbulent atmosphere of that noted hall led him to seek the quieter confines of the KΔP house. Nevertheless, he still steals back once in a while even though it is only to shake his head over the glory that was once Room 20's. Last year's fall and early spring practice with that horrible instrument of torture, the paddle, gave Banksie a terrific wallop which he transferred to good use in baseball—our own Casey at the bat.

LUCIUS HIRAM BASSETT

Waterbury, Vermont

A Σ Φ

Waterbury High School; Assistant Manager Football (3); Tau Kappa Alpha.

"Luke"

The monarch of the bookstore, prime minister of the library, and potentate plenipotentiary of the football team for the coming season. That's "Luke," the P. M. of the P. O. in the O. C. in the A. M. and the P. M. If you've read his history above, you've found he hails from Waterbury, which is nothing in his favor. What is, however, in his favor is that he was probably the hardest working assistant manager we've ever had, and he well deserves his present position as guardian angel of the 1924 football team. We feel safe in promising the A. A. a most successful season from a financial standpoint—a smoke-breathing dragon standing on a treasure box.

"Benny"

PAUL WILKINS BENEDICT

Greenwich, New York

X K M

Coxsackie High School; Dramatic Club (2, 3); Spanish Club (2).

Blue eyes, round velvety cheeks, voice perfectly heavenly, doncher knaow?—that's "Benny." Athlete? No. Musician? No—except as a ukulele torturer. Teahound? No—Heaven forbid! Well, what is the answer, then?

To begin with, a jolly good fellow, always ready for a good time. Then, as righthand man to Stage Manager Jud Williams, "Benny" discovered a forte, and now he has charge of the Dramatic Club's scenery work. For a sideline he dabbles in sealing wax art, to the despair of his friends.

"Oh help! Gosh! My goodness, don't let that drop fall!" There's no mistaking to whom belongs that gentle way of using cuss-words.

JOHN CLARKE BRITNELL

Cornwall-on-Hudson, New York

K Δ P

Cornwall-on-Hudson High School; Class Treasurer (2); Undergraduate Treasurer (3); Track Squad (2); German Club (1).

"Jack"

A member of the great triumvirate of the Bookstore, equally ready to deal out letters, books, or candy. That eternal grin of his causes many members of the other side of the hill to linger for a little chat, with the resultant half-cut. He has a special predilection for prospective teachers. Why? Well, back home—but we'd better not say too much. Did you ever see him on the outs with the world? Neither did we, and it's his never-failing good humor that accounts for his popularity. He hails from Cornwall-on-the-Hudson, and it's another instance of his agreeable disposition that as far as we know he has never said, "If you're near there, drop in."

"Brokie"

GORDON BROKENSHIRE

Charleston, South Carolina

Δ Υ

Central High School, Guilford, Mass.; College Band (3); Blue Baboon Art Staff (3); Dramatic Club (3); Glee Club (3); Football Squad (2).

In the footsteps of Bob, the soldier-student, came Gordon, a worthy brother of a noted predecessor, bidding fair to be as well liked. It is most unusual to find a man with several homes, yet, although the catalogue claims he lives in Painter Hall, he is very often to be found in the Phi Beta house, pursuing the ever-elusive golden key. When he is not studying or solving deep philosophical questions, we find his attention turned towards hiking, skiing, and other out-door activities. A quiet voice and a pleasant smile mark him.

WILLIAM CLAYTON BROWNE

Reading, Massachusetts

Δ Κ Ε

Reading High School; Football Squad (1); Candidate Assistant Football Manager.

"Brownie", "Comet"

Not much on size, he's almost hidden by a smile that's as broad as he is. That means a lot, because Bill's figure resembles that person most popular during the wintry last month of the year—but "Comet" doesn't appreciate any reference to Santa Claus. He doesn't belong to the Klan, but, nevertheless, the letter "K" plays a large part in his life. He's got a laugh that we've been vainly trying to describe for the last three years, and have finally given up as impossible. There isn't another quite like it. As a matter of fact, no one else is quite like him. "Brownie" had football ambitions his Freshman year and made the squad, but since then he's been a regular "man-about-campus." He probably studies once in a while, but no one ever caught him at it.

"Art"

ARTHUR HAGOP BULBULIAN

Boston, Massachusetts

Newton High School, Newtonville, Mass ; Assistant in Biology (3); Dramatic Club (3); English Club, Program Committee (3); Student Forum (3); College Band (2); Philian.

This lusty son of old Armenia came a long way from home to get his education, but we are glad that he did and would welcome more of his countrymen like him. Arthur is tall, straight, and of athletic build. He has never entered into athletics to any extent, however, but takes his exercise regularly by diligently mopping the floor with his roommate every Saturday night. Biology is his forte, but his skilful fingers and trained eye have also made him an expert in both modeling and drawing. For the fair sex, it is not supposed that "Art" has any affinity at all, but not long ago he suddenly achieved a violent desire to learn the Terpsichorean art, and we begin to have suspicions. That handsome shock of curly black hair we do not believe was given him for nothing.

DONALD STEPHEN CANN

Waterbury, Connecticut

Δ Υ

Crosby High School; Wetherell Debating Club (1); Track Squad (1), Candidate Assistant Track Manager.

"Don", "Rusty"

This is Donald Cann, brother of the famous "Rusty" Cann of former Middlebury days. We have never heard that he was any relation to the well-known Oil Cann, but he has developed a smooth-flowing line in spite of it. Probably that comes from his extensive experience with a summer Chautauqua. For three years he has been tent chairman of that organization and in that capacity has traveled from pole to pole.

Between Chautauquas, "Don" pursues assiduously every science and mechanics course he can lay his hands on preparing for M. I. T. He says he's afraid that he can't make the riffle, but we know "Don" can!

"Mike"

MICHAEL GEORGE CARBOY

Newark, New Jersey

X Ψ

East Side High School; Football (1, 2, 3); Track (1, 2); Athletic Council (3); Interfraternity Council; Sages.

In the fall of 1921, a loud buzzing was heard in the air, and the largest mosquito ever seen, on a non-stop flight from Newark, New Jersey, dropped a bundle in our midst. The bundle proved to be "Mike," who rose to his feet, brushed off his clothes, and said, "Ladies first." We'll explain. Most any winter's night will find him coasting with some inhabitant of the far side of the Hill, and here is where his motto comes in. "Mike" says, "Put 'em first. They make good windshields and a soft landing in a turnover. I'm no Santa Claus." His voice reminds one of the mosquito which brought him here, but with a little tuning can be harmoniously blended into any old quartet.

ALBERT BARTON CASS

South Bethlehem, New York

Σ Φ I

Ravena High School; German Club; Football Squad (3); Track Team (2); Interfraternity Council; Sages.

"Al"

Mr. Chairman, Ladies and Gentlemen:—We are reminded of the story of the young lady, a recent visitor here, who exclaimed on her first sight of "Al" Cass, "Oh, what a moral and intellectual giant." He does give one that impression. "Al" came to Midd from Albany, and we can't blame him for that. Even though he moves around the campus as if he didn't care whether school kept or not, he can play a few football, can stretch his long legs over a high jump, and is hot on the trail of the golden watch charm. His chief characteristics are his intelligent look, due to his wiry hair, and his resonant laugh. Incidentally, he's better looking than this picture would indicate. His ambition is to be Mayor of Albany.

"Chape"

MERRICK WARREN CHAPIN, JR.

Hartford, Connecticut

A Σ Φ

Hartford Public High School; Wetherell Debating Club (1); Track Squad (1); Football Squad (2); Varsity Squad (3); Class Football (2); Candidate Assistant Baseball Manager (2).

"Chape" is another of the multitude that hails from the Nutmeg state. Since his advent into Midd, he has changed by leaps and bounds, physically, socially and musically. Socially, he fits ace-high, especially down on Weybridge Street. Just ask the co-eds at the Homestead about the youth, filled with "wim, wigor, and witality," who keeps them cozy and comfortable during the cold winter months. "Chape" has acquired a ukulele complex which is rather unique. To see him vibrate to the strum of his familiar "don't care if I doodle, doo, doo, doo" would make any native Hawaiian rage with envy. A hard worker on the gridiron and a plugger in all academic functions. Although he has not had many opportunities to strut his stuff with the eleven this season, we hope to see him with the Varsity during the 1924 schedule.

GEORGE BARR CLARK

Palmyra, New York

Δ Υ

Palmyra High School; Transfer University of Rochester; Class Treasurer (1).

"George"

George comes from Palmyra, which is just outside of Rochester, and he doesn't care who knows it. If you see a sleepy looking person hobbling across the boardwalk about 7:10 A. M., that's George in search of food. When he gets confidential, beat it. He can approach you with the air of a person about to tell you where there is a free-lunch counter, and separate you from your last dollar. He's going into salesmanship and high finance when his undergrad days are over, and he feels that any preparation he can get now will come in handy. G. Barr's smoothness is not confined to the men's side of the campus, for we occasionally see him step across the border to cheer up Dean Ross' protégées.

Tired of the celibacy of Springfield College, "Les" came to Midd with hopes for the best. He started out with a rush to fulfil his expectations, but changed his attention from the fair sex to sports. "Les" was on the basketball squad at Springfield, and bids fair to acquire an "M" here in both that and tennis. Aside from athletics, he is a good sport, has a ready wit, and is liked by all. Here's luck to you, "Les."

"Art"

"Art" Connor—you'd know by his name that he isn't any relation to Heinz or his 57 varieties, but even at that, "Art" included himself in a fine family when he joined the ranks of '25. His interests are national—never deposits money in a trust or savings bank. Someone asked him to write in her "Mem" book, and we've been trying to puzzle out the entry ever since. Under "Ambition" he wrote: "To own an onion farm in California." We can understand why he would like the famous climate, but the peculiar agricultural pursuit is a mystery. He will ever be known for his modesty.

Shades of Ichabod Crane, William Jennings Bryant, Horace Greeley, Emerson—Gee, we're stuck. "Oscar" of Randolph is the embodiment of all these. In stature, he's Sleepy Hollow's teacher himself. His silver tongue moves his audiences to any stage of emotions. He slings a mean pen, isn't afraid to say what he thinks, and the Campus has enjoyed a most successful year under his editorship. He is also the guiding mentor of the English Club. Oh, we forgot to mention Caruso in our first list, for Oscar's bass is very much in evidence in the choir and in the Glee Club. He has the true Middlebury spirit of one who says little and does much.

Under "Duke's" attractive exterior there is a scintillating quality of intellect that is drawing him willy-nilly into the columns of the Phi Betas. We predict that there will be a stir in that revered society, and possibly a reform in the traditional dress of the honored intellectuals. "Duke's" Freshman impulse was to become a minister, but after two summers in and about the Spanish school he has abandoned that idea. Now he can see nothing but the teaching profession—long blissful vacations—a book—and She—(and mayhap a jug)—under a tree forever and ever—until tomorrow.

A plump rosy-cheeked lad with a perpetual smile and all kinds of good nature. After one or two visits to Pa White's Latin class, "Monk" almost despaired of ever being able to claim a sheepskin, but perseverance and hard work are now bringing him through with colors flying.

As a Freshman, "Monk" loved neither water nor paddle, and as a Sophomore his gentle heart could not bring himself to use either. He is headed for the ministry. Armed with "that school-girl complexion," "Monk" should have no difficulty in captivating his parish, and we dare say "the skin you love to touch" should be of great help to him in finding the one who will ever after brew his breakfast coffee and brighten the rectory for him.

You've noticed him, the quiet fellow with the smile—that's "Pat" of Middlebury, who spends most of his time during college in the brick house facing the athletic field. Our co-eds don't know him very well, but if they did, they would soon find out why he doesn't appear on their side of the Hill more often. Not that he isn't fond of the ladies, but that he is more fond of a lady. For all his seeming quietness, he's anything but that when he gets with the "bunch" who will all testify that "Pat" is one of the best.

This impetuous youth has his name on the bulletin boards more than anyone else, because careless ones are always leaving things in the hemicycle where Ralph does his daily dozen. He is chiefly famous for never missing a class fight, and isn't found on the sidelines merely watching it. The long pair of legs flying from the bottom of the pile is his. A potential engineer and public speaker. Erratic, but irresistibly determined, Ralph has tackled the problem of putting himself through college with the courage that knows no defeat.

It's almost impossible to talk about "Cal" without mentioning Freddie. Something like the Smith brothers or the Duncan sisters. Freddie is inclined to laugh at "Cal's" gridiron efforts, but we admire his perseverance. Nothing worries him, he is as much at home in the classroom or before an angry mob as he was at summer school last year. Although he doesn't chase the women, his name on a dance program is sure to bring lots of joy with it. "Cal" has a ready smile, with lots of seriousness and determination behind it.

Gridiron hero, trombone artist, vender of chewing gum, sweetmeats, etc., and a most able and ready stump speaker. "Freddy" has been known to deliver dissertations with equal facility on "Why we don't appreciate Cal" or "Psychanalysis applied to a metaphysical existence." A Fokine on the dance floor, yet he is hardly ever among those who shake hands with the chaperones. There must be some deep, dark secret in his red-headed past which keeps him on this side of the Hill. But "Freddy's" cheerfulness doesn't admit of any past—just a bright future.

Happy-go-lucky and gay, yet serious minded when occasion demands. He hid himself behind the scenes in Dramatic Club plays until Green Stockings came along. Whether it was the title or something else that brought him out of his retirement no one knows, but along with copious white whiskers and a jovial laugh, he displayed a fund of talent. To know him with make-up on is one thing, but to know him as a friend-true-blue and loyal is far better.

A lengthy subject from the St. Johnsbury Academy, who it is rumored had a chance to play Mutt in a prominent New York troupe, but, luckily, was influenced to come to Midd. This decision seems to have had a serious effect on his stature, for now he is only 6′ 3″, having lost several inches as a result of carrying so many books. It looked his Freshman year as if he were trying to force out his brother on the football team, but now he's filling Big Rip's shoes on the hockey rink. He's not fickle, but believes that variety is the spice of life, and his life must be well flavored.

This adjacent likeness is one of Senator Gollnick, the raving, radical, labor leader from Wisconsin, who is at present starting agitation for a four-hour day and a twenty-hour night for college students. "Ebby" is an efficiency expert of the highest type. His motto is "maximum results with minimum effort." But don't get the wrong impression of him. Anyone who has equalled "Ebby's" record in physics deserves commendation. Personally, he is welcome anywhere—his wit and smile are irresistible, and there are by actual count twenty-eight co-eds who would gladly flunk out for the privilege of dancing all night to his divine piano playing. "Wee" hails from the mosquito-laden marshes of New Jersey, and came to us as a walking advertisement for the well-known House of Kuppenheimer, and judging from the effect on the members of the north side of the campus, his line of goods and his line in general are most acceptable. Ten years hence we may expect to see him bowing to an enthusiastic audience behind the footlights of Shubert's theatre, for "Wee" has considerable histrionic ability which he demonstrates whether asked to or not. His pink and white complexion and his mustache (he shaved it for this picture) have not failed him, but have helped him along the road to a sure success in the theatrical world.

Cyrus is one of these typical Yankee boys with a keen sense of thrift and persevering ambition. He is especially fond of reading, and has a passion for music. In the latter he has shown remarkable progress—from the mouth organ as a Frosh, and the oboe as a Sophomore, he is now vigorously conquering the slide trombone with "howling" success. Most of the howling comes from the dark recesses of Starr, but hereafter he has faithfully promised to confine his efforts to the tuba and the bass drum—and that settles that. Besides playing the trombone, running for meals, and putting away books in the library, "Cy's" only athletic endeavor is cross-country running. His long practice on the Cornwall hills has made him a member of the Varsity team.

Our president came to college with all sorts of ambitions. Scholarship rated high among his desires, but his chief aim was to attend all the sorority dances. To date, his record is ninety-nine and forty-four hundredths per cent. perfect, and in spite of a strategic defensive, his score mounts annually. He is business-like, accommodating, witty, sarcastic, and above all, a wise cracker. One summer at Bread Loaf wrecked him for the quiet, secluded life at Middlebury, and it was there that he developed his innate capacity for 'owlin' aroun'. Those who know him best, realize that his capacity for razzing is rivaled only by his qualities of friendship, sympathy, and understanding. He is a student and connoisseur of women, handwriting, and human nature. Alexander was Great, Richard was Lion-hearted, and Henry is Happy.

After passing enough time at Columbia and C. C., N. Y., to get that indefinable adjunct known as "city class," "Em" tucked his fiddle under his arm and entrained for Midd. Said fiddle usually denotes the condition of his constitution, for when the bunch at Painter aren't kept from studying by its squeaking, they conclude that "Em" is out of sorts. His being that way may be due to thoughts of the unfair sex or to the philosophizing that his Greek inspires in him. "Chan" says that if he'd dream less of women, in all probability Providence would bestow on him more height and more good looks. Anyway he seems to be satisfied with what he's got, so he isn't worrying much.

No fuss nor bother, but sober and steady and pleasant company, he is a great addition to the class and the college. Yes, girls, this is the fellow you were asking about, the formidable but good-looking Hollquist, who is the perfect combination at last: an athlete and at the same time a student. He doesn't confine himself to only one sport, but is a bear on the gridiron, the track, the basketball floor, the diamond, and the ski jump. In spite of his fiery top, he's a cool cuss, and is very fond of animals, especially burros. He gets quite a kick out of them (wise crack). He has the characteristically colored hair that one usually associates with "That Big Blond Mamma," and speaking of women, although Jiggs is pretty studious, he can rise to answer "The call of the wild" from the other side of the Hill. He has been accused of possessing a card catalogue of the women's college, but it must be for the use of the brothers only, for notwithstanding that he lives in West Hartford, he runs down to Boston frequently. Since taking Prof. Abbott's courses, "Larry" knows every case that has ever appeared in the court-house, and is usually quite able to quote them in the approved fashion. Although Morpheus claims him often, he's wide awake on the diamond and the gridiron. His "snap from the ear" is a peach. Also his snap with a paddle which starts way back of his ear and finishes—it is needless to state where—was the despair of many wearers of the pea-green. Mr. Murray, dancing instructor of the Vanderbilts, dropped dead of envy when he saw "Lawrence" gliding around the gym floor, and we don't blame him either.

His fame as a football player will be immortal in the annals of Midd, but not alone has he scored in that branch of sport. Varsity second baseman since his Freshman year and a tough man to play against on the basketball floor, also a good one to be with on the dance floor. Contrary to the custom of most migratory birds, "Jack" Lee flew north during the golden autumn of 1921 to become a Middlebury Freshman. The fact that he lives below the Mason-Dixon line, in Washington, D. C., may partially account for his sunny warmth of smile and his gracious social manners. "Jack" can truthfully merit the appellation of Middlebury's Musical Genius since he is unusually proficient in playing both violin and piano. His success on these instruments is only excelled by his rich baritone voice. A mainstay of the college orchestra, string quartette, and Glee Club, "Jack" will be remembered longest as the founder of that notorious group of ensemble artists who are known as "Lee's Lyrical Lunatics."

The wonders of the "Big City" with its crowds and huge buildings have not yet lost their power to thrill "Livy," who has been absorbing city atmosphere since his advent in 1921. He became popular at once especially with the class of '24, and was accorded anything but a cold reception. That class, recognizing his wiseness, dubbed him "Sage" and from what we heard one pleasant spring evening, he was having an uproarious time on Porter Field. We have grown so used to seeing him there that plans are now under way to have classes held in the chapel, where "Al's" meals will be served him for we should hate to think of conducting college without his playing as an accompaniment. His genial personality makes him well liked by all, and his splendid ability and force make him a welcome addition in any undertaking. It is no small wonder, then, that "Shorty" has been prominent in campus activities ever since his entrance to Midd. Witness his adroit management of the troublesome Sweater Committee as one example. But with all his outside activities, "Shorty" is a good student as well. Like Washington, he is beginning life as a surveyor, so we may put high hopes in his future. Indeed, we think Jonah's old saying, "You can't keep a good man down," fits him most exceptionally. Bill's persuasive powers are nothing short of marvelous. We are willing to bet a copy of the KALEID against a German mark that he could have borrowed the ark from Noah just as the water was beginning to get deep. Masquerading as a Phi Bete behind those horn-rimmed glasses, "Norm" is another of those wise few who transferred their affections to '25 after looking us over. During his recent sabbatical year, Dame Rumor hath it that he was principal or superintendent or something in the high school back home, but "Poly" claims he was just a prof. He is a combination of Rudy Weidorf and Zez Confrey at the piano, and a bear with the Sax. When he plays "Kitten on the Keys" one can close his eyes and imagine Zez himself handling the ivories. "Norm" is a terror with the women. He admits this himself, showing his fifteen daily letters to prove it. More power to you, "Poly."

MICHAEL CHARLES PRATA

Rye, New York

Rye High School; Glee Club (1, 2, 3); String Quartette (2, 3); Violin Soloist (Glee Club) (2, 3); English Club (3); Maison Française (3); Philians.

"Mike"

Short, but straight and dignified, with the wavy black hair of every son of sunny Italy, and the high forehead of the musician—that's "Mike." Proud as the Duke of Milan himself, but as jovial a companion as one could desire, "Mike" pursues his way triumphantly from one of Bryny's astronomy make-ups to the next. The science of the heavens is anything but heavenly to him.

A violinist he is, and one of such ability that there is not a shadow of a doubt in the minds of his friends but that Fritz Kreisler will be quite forgotten when Michael makes his debut. La langue française is his other forte and will probably be his avocation.

"Dick"

SAMUEL RICHARD RAPPORT

Hartford, Connecticut

Hartford Public High; Spanish Club (1, 2, 3), President (1), Executive Committee (2, 3); Glee Club (1, 2); Assistant Cheer Leader (2, 3); Dramatic Club (1, 2, 3), Publicity Director (2, 3); English Club (3); KALEIDOSCOPE Board (3); Blue Baboon Staff (3).

We hardly dare attempt to express it (and freight is far too slow for this speedy parcel)! Words seem so futile. Of course, we might introduce him, but assure you that to know him you must—we-ll—get acquainted. As to that introduction—"Allow me to present"—but none of this Book-of-Etiquette stuff. "Dick" is just Dick—scrupulously conscientious; possessor of a bewitchingly magnetic smile; believing the inhabitants of the northernmost peak of our campus to be kleptomaniacs of the first degree; cracker-wise enough to go off at the right moment; an actor rivaled only by Sarah Bernhardt herself; and the best "Walker" the Glee Club has ever known.

FREDERICK BEACOM RICH

"Beac"

Ever meet a Middlebury man who craved knowledge? No? Then you have never met "Beac." He's the fellow with the glasses in the center of the KALEIDOSCOPE picture. Yeh, he's the editor. Perhaps you've seen the short fellow giving the big boys a work-out on the tennis courts; he took them all on for a fall this year. Or maybe you know the boy with the left-hand hook on the basketball floor? Yeh, that's Rich. He's the kind of a fellow we like to see wearing a Phi Bete pledge button. Honest, he has one of those, too. No, he isn't particularly busy. What? Well, maybe he is, but he doesn't show it.

"Riegie"

HERBERT OTTO RIEGELMAN

Newark, New Jersey

Δ Y

South Side High School; Varsity Football (1, 2, 3); Basketball (3); Sages; Delta Tau; Glee Club (3); Sophomore Rules Committee; Student Council (3).

One of our many importations from the mosquito marshes, Herb has more than paid his duty by his great line work on the gridiron. For three years his lanky, but graceful form has been hurled with telling effect against many an ambitious charge. He has now added basketball and glee club to his athletic endeavors, and in both is reaching what might in this case be termed the heights of success. There was a time when "Riegie" spent the desolate interim between football seasons among the intricate apparatus of the chem lab. Now, however, he is often seen during the winter and even the spring, galloping over the hills behind his reindeer, with varied and charming misses by his side. We would fain declare whether football prowess, cave-man stature, or the dulcet blue eyes did it.

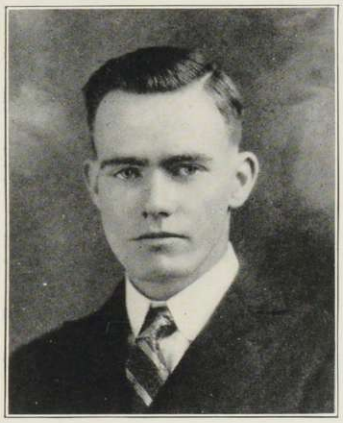
JOHN ROGALSKI

New Britain, Connecticut

Dean Academy; Football Squad (1, 2, 3); Baseball Squad (1, 2).

Hats off to Jack, the flyweight quarterback! He came to Midd from the Nutmeg forests with two main ambitions: To become a French-speaking American and to make his letter as Varsity quaterback. At both he is found to be working diligently in his spare moments, and just waiting for a chance to shine when the opportunity comes. In the latter he seems to be bucking against odds because his height and weight are against him, but he takes everything with a smile and a keen come-back for more. Here's to you, "Rogo," stick to it and Dame Fortune will spread out her best for you.

"Rogo"



"Scottie", "Rog"

ROGER WILLIAM SCOTT

North Hadley, Massachusetts

Hopkins Academy, Hadley, Mass.; Band (1, 2, 3); College Orchestra (2, 3); German Club (2, 3); Philian.

Has anyone ever seen a serious-minded student on the campus? If not, allow us to proudly introduce Roger, more popularly known as "Stew." This name was given him in his Frosh days by some of the more reckless members of South Starr, and "Rog" has accepted it ever since. He doesn't deserve it, but we suppose the gang meant it to indicate that they were intoxicated by the dulcet tones of his cornet, which thrill the inmates of Painter daily now. "Rog" isn't by any means bound to North Hadley, for he migrates up this way summers, so that he can get a little ahead of the rest of the bunch in Chem. After three years of his company, we know that he's the best kind of a friend and a reliable addition to Midd.

JESSE ARNOLD SHAW

Danvers, Massachusetts

X K M

Holten High School; Northeastern University Track (1); German Club (2, 3); Dramatic Club (2, 3); Saxonian Board (3).

"Shaw", "Don"

The subject before us is a long one in more ways than one, and is no other than J. Arnold Shaw, the all-American nomad from Danvers, Mass. J. Arnold started his collegiate career at Northeastern, but stayed there only a few days. That's "J. A." all over. More than forty days at a stretch in one town looks like a lifetime to him. If self-confidence is a stepping stone to success, "Oh Shaw" carries a whole stairway with him. Of late his interests have been turned into literary channels, and while he does not claim to make writing his business, we shall not be surprised before long to see his stories in the Saturday Evening Post.

"Smitty", "Ear-ache"

ERIC WRIGHT SMITH

Middlebury, Vermont

X K M

Cushing Academy.

Eric—no, that's too formal—"Smitty", entered Midd with the rest of us, and under the same conditions, no claim to fame. Quiet and unassuming by nature, he went his own way until the annual Frosh-Soph football farce, and then stepped into fame, for when '24 captured two of our players "Smitty" was right there with his car, and their subsequent return and participation in the slaughter were due in no small measure to him and the Dodge. (Not to be taken as an automobile advertisement.) Although Math in all forms is his bugaboo, he follows passionately all the ramifications of Ec., which augurs well for his future. He doesn't mix with our sisterhood, but we know of one who is O. Kay to him.

ALTON HIRAM SPENCER

St. Johnsbury, Vermont

Δ Y

St. Johnsbury Academy; Manager Freshman Basketball; Assistant Manager Baseball (3).

"Spence"

On the right we have the original non-stop letter writer of Addison County, St. Johnsbury, and Costa Rica. He is willing to take on all comers, the use of the typewriter being barred. When "Spence" came to college he thought that Bridge was a game you played over Otter Creek, but now can deal off either end of the pack with equal facility. The tough part of the game for him is that so many of the prizes are ash trays or cigarette holders. Since spending his summers in the refining influence of a New Hampshire hotel, Hiram has become convinced that Vermont is not the whole United States, but only nine-tenths of it. The other tenth is in Worcester, Mass.

"Hav", "Staps"

ROGER HAVILAND STAPLES, JR.

Troy, New York

X Ψ

Troy Conference Academy.

"Hav," the boy with the smile! And the smile always wins. A true friend to all who know him, and yet rather widely known. It has been rumored that a certain man came out for the first time with the expression, "he'd give you the shirt off his back" only after he'd met this gentleman from the collar city, but "Hav" insists that he really loaned it after said homo had the shirt on. However, enough digression. "Hav" is not really a youthful prodigy. His grades are only "gentlemanly" high and he shaves 'n' everything. He is a wonder tho' and has much to recommend him—perhaps the greatest of these being that he is the one Troyite who disclaims any acquaintanceship with the more or less notorious Helen—of River Street.

CLARENCE EUGENE STURTEVANT

Middlebury, Vermont

Σ Φ I

Bristol High School.

"Sturty"

When it comes to driving a Ford over the proverbially rough and rocky Vermont roads, we recommend "Sturty" as a sure thing. No matter what the weather or the time of the night, he can always find his way back after taking the boys out to visit a cider mill—which we might add is no small feat, but here we are tempted to talk of ourself and that would never do. They tell us that "Sturty" is also quite a hand with the fair sex and goes big in his home town. Under his unassuming exterior, "Sturty" is found to be a real pal, a true friend with a smile for all. He is as undisturbed when guiding a flivver as he is when admiring Nature from the top of Chipman.

"Cholkeh"

PAUL WILLIAM WARD

Akron, Ohio

Central High School; University of Akron (1); University of West Virginia (2); Blue Baboon Board (3); Dramatic Club.

Another recruit from the Tire City, who, after trying out the climate in Virginia and finding its indolence-breeding qualities not at all suited to his temperament, hit upon the bright plan of going to the other extreme, wherefore his advent into '25 last fall. His art work and his scenic effects have already proved valuable adjuncts to our periodicals and to the Dramat. Paul is widely read and his reading has resulted in a definite groping among the intangibles for the real, which is probably an ideal aim in this life. Possessed of a style quite his own and an appreciation of the fineness in an all-too-prosaic world, we predict for him a brilliant future in his chosen avocation.

PERCY THEODORE WHITNEY

Salisbury, Vermont

X Ψ

Middlebury High School; Class Football (1, 2); Track Squad (1); Class Track (2); Varsity Track (2).

"Peter", "Perc", "Whit"

Being handicapped by having a first name, Percy, he has been trying all his life to overcome it and prove that a name isn't everything in life. One of his means of proving this, is to make the great out-of-doors his home, and every chance he gets he is invading "the wilds of this wild country," whether it be summer or winter. It is commonly believed that he used the same bit of reasoning when he went out for track, so that he could more successfully pursue the elusive game on the women's side of the Hill. Cheer up, Perc, although both you and Mike are out for track and chasing the same deer, you are bound to have your innings very soon.

"Jack"

ARTHUR ELBRIDGE WITHAM

Lynn, Massachusetts

K Δ P

Lynn English High School; Chairman Sophomore Hop Committee 1921; Varsity Baseball (2, 3); Athletic Council (4).

"Jack" is the only one of the Four Lynn Muskateers about whom there is a mystery. One wouldn't think so to look at this picture, but no one has ever been able to find out how "Arthur Elbridge" became "Jack." Not that we don't like it—we do, because "Jack" suits him much better than "A. E." Once in a while, however, he "merits" the latter appellation for he is quite serious at times, but the next moment we call him "Jack", because then he is the exact opposite. This versatility in his make-up causes his friends to prophesy for him a varied future. His work on the diamond leads some to think he will be a big league pitcher, others would have him a minister, others a philosopher, but the vast majority seem to think he will become a professional dancer.

"Jess"

"Jess" fell into the clutches of the North Starr gang in his Freshman year, and thus far has not been able to escape, nor has he seemed to want to. He spends his summers traveling towards Montreal, and then immediately returns on the same train. When he was a wearer of the enveloping P-green, "Jess" was, so to speak, "a bashful boy with cheeks of tan," but, lo—the child of yesteryear has vanished. With an eviable name in his studies and having done his bit on the football field, he has manfully borne his social duties on the other side of the Hill, and has kept us guessing as to who is the chief cause of his midnight revelry.

A—is ambition, from her head to her toes
R—is for racket, which she makes all day long
A—is for awful, when she sings us a song!
H—is for happy. with one or a throng.

B—is for business, as she goes on her way
A—is for ardour, when she has time to play

RUTH WILLIS BALDWIN

Transfer, Mount Holyoke College.

"Boots", "Baldy"

Flip! flop! flip! flop! We know who's arriving—"Boots" has breezed in, in true Mount Holyoke fashion, overshoes and all. If Ruth is a sample—1925 will welcome more by special delivery.

Ruth has already proved by her snowshoe exploits that athletic ability is a Baldwin trait—we hope she will continue.

Do you want to dance? Ask Ruth!

Do you want the lastest "hit" in the musical line? Ask Ruth!

In fact no question fazes her, and her ready answer is known even now among us—as being right to the point. Ruth has been with us such a short time that we can say little about her past, but her future promises to make us glad she is finishing her college career in Middlebury.

"Louiser"

LOUISE EMEROY BARNARD

Altamont, New York

Schenectady High School; Home Economics Club (1, 2, 3); Dramatic Club (2, 3); House Chairman Eddy House (2); Home Economics Practice House (3).

"Quiet hours, girls," sounds a voice from some remote corner of the Eddy House. Oh yes! Louise was right there every time when it came to doing her duty.

An energetic worker, always ready for a "gala" time—that's Louise! When it comes to Home Ec., she can't be beat. Just sample her doughnuts! You'll see! And as for her prowess in the line of sewing and millinery, we can't say enough.

"We doubt not that for one so true
There must be other nobler work to do."

OLIVET MINERVA BECKWITH

"Becky"

What's that awful racket in the back alley in Bat Cot? It's only "Becky"! It may be a pillow fight or most anything, but there's sure to be something doing when she's around. Who is that short, plump girl who is always right there with lots of pep on the hockey field, playing basketball, or hiking? That's "Becky", too. Who is that business-like young miss driving the little Dodge? There she goes around the corner on two wheels, again. That's "Becky". Who is the serious student who comes out of the registrar's office with a card full of A's? Why that's "Becky", too!

"Iva"

IVA LOUISE BROOKS

Pike, New Hampshire

Haverhill Academy; Dramatic Club (2, 3).

Iva looks very quiet and demure, but remember that appearances are sometimes deceiving. Then too, you must remember that Iva has been having experience in the wide, wide world. Teaching school must require calm and poise which few of us have yet acquired. No doubt many go to her already and seek advice as to the really best way to gain success in the realm of the school room. We envy your experience, Iva, and know that we need not fear as to your future.

ROSA RAVI BROOKS

Θ X E

Burr and Burton Seminary; Rollins College (1); Sigma Phi; Vice-President Y. W. C. A. (1); Dramatic Club (3); College Choir (3); French House (3); Basketball (1).

"Rosie"

Did you ever know a person who could juggle words of not less than six syllables as adeptly as a poet coins them—neither stammer nor blush; who could discuss intelligently—yes, even in French!—any topic one might suggest, be it the Prince of Wales (her favorite subject by the way) or "The Problem of the Species"; or who could manage the High School, Junior High, eight grades, the whole intricate system of education of Hinesburg, Vt.? Such a person is Rosa—and more, were our limited vocabulary capable of describing her. She just naturally walks into your affections and there remains as one of your best friends. She longs to lever quelque chose and when she does—well, she'll "get you if you don't watch out."

"Cele"

CECILE MARY BURNS

Middlebury, Vermont

Middlebury High School; Home Economics Club (2); Glee Club (3).

Track Record: 2-mile run, 9 min., 55 sec.

Cecile will never let that stand! She needs but ten minutes now to reach class before the absences are read. We feel sure that Jones, '19, will have his record outstripped before she graduates.

That may be a bit misleading as to "Cele", however, for, honestly she is not a procrastinator nor does she ever lose the Rutland train when leaving for the week-end. She always gets there and we're betting that she always will!

"Doris-s-ica?" "What dear?" A "What dear" means the proximity of our heroine with the hair shadowed eyes. The ability hidden beneath her locks never leaves things half done, but makes her absolutely dependable. Many a head-achy person has had opportunity to thank her thoughtfulness. We hope that she will make it unnecessary for Prexy to speak again on "burning the midnight oil" and "coffeed" inspirations.

"A friend in need is a friend indeed."

"Dot"

DORIS ELIZABETH CHASE

Rumford, Rhode Island

East Providence High School; Teachers' College, Columbia; Home Economics Club (3).

"Dot" hasn't any bad habits worth mentioning for she is rather a gentle maiden unless excited. Besides she just came to us this year and we hardly know her as yet. We wish she had lived on the "Hill" so that we might have seen more of her, too. These friends who have seen "Noo York" frighten us a little, but in "Dot's" case we know that the barrier of reserve conceals a good share of fun and gaiety.

"All the little boys and girls,
With rosy cheeks and flaxen curls
. . . . . .ran merrily after—"

"Midd", "Elviry"

Miss Clark, of course. We rather smile at that appellation ourselves for we do not see her as the stern (?) play-ground director. The "little" boys and girls are not the only ones who run merrily after, either. Indeed, we wonder that she never grows weary of the endless questions regarding the most economical way to use our limited number of pennies. And who wouldn't want to play around with such a cook (except that she is always leaving us in order to start dinner)? Her apron strings are already pulled in every direction —and yet there is always room for one more.

"Rufus"

Paging Ruth Dodge! Did you look in the Chem lab? In the Biology lab? Did you hear a typewriter clacking at the Maison? No? Well look in the German class room. Not there? Ah, here she comes. She's been up to get special permission to take another extra course.

Horace notebooks, acid radicals, notochords, German verbs are all attacked in the same conscientious manner which marks everything she does. Most of us would be pretty busy with just one of these subjects to master, but Ruth finds plenty of time for athletics and hiking! Ask her to roll a pack or make a sleeping bag. She will give you a demonstration of how to "rough it" smoothly.

Don't let that serious demeanor fool you! Under it lies an unlimited source of dry wit and humor.

"Peggy"

HELEN MAY DUNZ

Cohoes, New York

Θ X E

Cohoes High School; Dramatic Club (3); Glee Club (3).

Helen attended New York State College last year, but decided that Midd was the ideal place and is back doing business on the old stand. One of her most steadfast beliefs is that fudge is good for the dentist's occupation. Consequently she has learned the art of successful candy making, and applies it so that all the callers in the parlor below have a far-away look in their eyes, think of home and Mother, and wish dinner were not so far away. "Peg" usually does what other people leave undone, about which others say, "Let George do it."

MARJORIE BENSON EAMES

"Marj"

Seldom do we see "Marj" without her rubbers and umbrella for the crafty weather-man will never find her napping. Last winter we understand that she tried to keep her balance on skiis. Finding this rather disastrous, she decided that hiking and pasting Campus folders are not such dangerous pastimes. We always did think that "prevention is better than cure" and congratulate "Marj" on her precautious nature.

But when we want a competent pianist and a girl who's sure to do what she's asked to, we go to you, Marjorie!

"Dot"

DORIS MARCIA EDDY

Newport Center, Vermont

Derby Academy; Student Volunteer (2, 3); Y. W. C. A. Fellowship Committee (2, 3); Secretary English Club (3).

"Here she comes, curst and sad!"

"Dot" burst into English class ten minutes late one morning to be greeted by these immortal words, Professor Cady having reached the psychological point in his reading. Needless to say there have been no half cuts registered for her since that morning, but we don't think she minded very much for already she is following in the steps of the world—famous Eddys who also got their start here in Midd. Even now she can answer your queries by exact extracts from Shakespeare or the Bible and know which she is quoting, too.

"Poets lose half the praise they should have got,
Could it be known what they discreetly blot."

LOUISE HARRIET ELMER

Addison, Vermont

Middlebury High School; Glee Club (2); Dramatic Club (2, 3).

Have you noticed those features? A Roman lady, Cæsar's sister without a doubt.

The lure of the wilds of Addison often calls her away. Why? "To Keep the Home Fires Burning."

Hiking she considers too strenuous an exercise, but not so with dancing. That is merely a pleasant pastime.

When the hustle-bustle of college affairs or the heated discussions with others wear on your nerves just go to "Elmer", Her calm and poise, other Roman characteristics, are unbroken except when Tommy fails in his duty.

"Elmer"

"Ione"

IONE PEARLE FELLOWS

Derby, Vermont

Derby Academy; Campus Board.

"A quiet mind in a loud world."

Ione lived at Prexy's house her Sophomore year and we have always thought that was too bad. The Sophomore year is notoriously the one when co-eds are the most bumptious and need that sort of refining influence, but it was all wasted on Ione for she is so quiet they hardly knew she was there.

She is very fond of sewing and "whiles many happy hours away" juggling a needle and thread—maybe this accounts for her trim and neat appearance.

"Gay", "Brownie"

Surely you have seen the good-natured, little dark-haired girl who always gets first place and sweeps in with such regal glory with the choir following meekly in her train. Beryle is in the limelight when it comes to music, whether voice or violin. For music and athletics are her hobbies and just ask her to do her "Darktown Strutters" dance for you! When she first arrived she created a little wholesome mischief but was soon caught in an "eddy" and we'll admit we don't know the rest. Just like the little brown jug—full of good spirits, bubbling over with fun!

Aldura is the exception that proves the rule. She hails from the West, but makes herself right at home in the East. We aren't quite sure which room is hers on first floor Pearsons—turn to the right as you come in the door. If she isn't there, try the left. Of course, we don't know just her limits as to warnings—we see only the many hair-breadth escapes as she races with the clock and bell. She doesn't worry. Why should we?

Conway High School; College Choir (2, 3); Glee Club (2, 3); Secretary Class (3).

We'd change "Ros" to rouge—for her cheeks are always rosy and it is great fun to start her ready blush. She'll get over that soon for she appears in public often, either at the organ or in the alto section of the choir. In the latter position she has established quite a record for herself. Never has she sung an extra "Amen", laughed in the wrong place during the sermon, or tripped on her robe. That should let her through the golden gates without any further discussion.

Wherever she may be,
There's a cheerful heart, a helping hand,
A right good friend is she.

Who is this
Who comes tearing in,
With hair flying
And flings herself toward the typewriter,
And pounds out words,
And words,
And words,
Accented with dashes,
And slashes,
And exclamation points?
Don't get excited—
It's only Hutchie,
The Teller of Tales.

Ask "Dot", she knows—at least she will tell you. We wish we had her line or her brains. Don't get the idea that she is a grind and frowns upon the sterner sex for she is really quite a social light. Her whole self is a contradiction. Black hair, parted in the middle, smooth brow, inquisitive nose, and tireless mouth with, yes, a very decided chin—tell me an all-embracing adjective if you can. She is just "Dot"!

"Mackey"

Did I hear peaches from Peacham? Yes, quite true. Agnes comes from the town famed far and wide for its English ambassador—and Agnes. Personally we remember it for the latter. And English ambassador sounds very unapproachable and like all great men must have many enemies. Agnes isn't a bit like that. The only time you had better not approach her is on the hockey field or in the gym. Then you may be told that your posture is exceedingly poor or find yourself foolishly looking around for the ball which you thought you had secured. And as for enemies—nary a one. We never knew her to get upset over petty things, but doubt whether she'd have a chance to let us know if she did. Always ready to lend a sympathetic ear, never criticizing unnecessarily, she's everybody's friend.

"Sunny" is her nickname and sunny is her nature. She has a laugh for every minute, and a graveyard looks like a circus when she gets started in it. Helen is one of our talented persons "for a' that." She writes poetry for Horace notebooks and words for popular songs equally well and shows no preference. This year she has seen fit, not only to live off the Hill, for she has always done that, but to set up housekeeping in a nice little apartment. We don't worry about her, however, because she is under good care.

If you wish to be sure of a soaking good time just walk under the same umbrella with "Kay" on a rainy day. The umbrella soars far above like an aeroplane and the rain comes in on all sides—but who cares? Six feet tall, "Kay" will always be one we can look up to in more ways than one. In athletics, Y. "Cora" just slips into her own place quietly, never bothering the profs with unnecessary questions or wrong answers. As a refuge for one of those constantly starving individuals, the Home Ec House is just the place for "Pete", especially when she is fulfilling her duties as cook. However, her ambitions don't stop here, for this year finds a decided addition to the Glee Club in the person of this same "Pete". Quite a happy combination that—singing and cooking.

A clown in the making, a sure cure for the "blues", with an inexhaustible store of jokes, and a never-failing wit—that's "Pete".

"Evvie" is such a little miss she slips in everywhere and does her bit without attracting much attention. She made an entry for an active college career when she assumed the rôle of nurse on Weybridge Street—Freshman year. Such responsibilities soon left their mark upon her, for always does she conduct herself with quiet dignity and look upon life with most serious eyes.

Loyalty to her school, her class, and even to some who might not be included, this is uppermost with her. Optimist and friend she gives the class a willing helpful hand at every turn.

She has started her career early, for she has wielded the rod at High School this year.

"Lil"

Then too, "Lil" is an athlete. You might not know it for she is certainly not one of those Amazons who dash around in men's clothes and ask you to feel their muscle! But when it comes to putting the ball just where it belongs, "Lil" is right there.

DOROTHY ELIZABETH REED

Collinsville, Connecticut

Δ Ω Δ

Collinsville High School; Glee Club (1, 2, 3); Sophomore Rules Committee (2); Spanish Club (2); Dramatic Club (3).

"Dot" hails from a small town in the "Nutmeg" state. She is always saying, "At home we do it this way," but is fast learning to do it our way.

Most of her time is spent in the library where she absorbs history like a sponge—that is, whenever the remote places of the earth are not claiming her attention. If the "sign-up" book continues to register "movies" four times a week for "Dot", we are afraid that one Phi Beta key may be lacking in our class. So far the A's have it.

On the occasion of "Dot's" first appearance at the French House, she was asked: Voulez-vous avoir du lait ou du café? "Dot" answered very agreeably: Oui, oui! Rather a quick and well-polished retort for one with a New England bringing up. She chatters French quite fluently now, we hear, possibly that is why this little unit can make a baseball bat perform its duty so well. She talks to it and has it hypnotized. "Dot" has several other methods of speaking though, aside from these two languages. She has her music, and talks to us most eloquently of all through the medium of the organ or the piano.

It is very seldom that Alice is forced to say, "I don't know" in the classroom. Of course this book is not a guide to classroom helps and hints, but she is a very fine person to sit side of, for you can always breathe easy in knowing that she will not shake her head and let the question be passed along to you. She has a fine sense of humor and isn't at all afraid to use it. She makes friends easily, and though she rarely casts her glances to the other side of the chapel, she may fool us yet. History readings, German Club, and the latest movie star are but a part of her repertoire. And just one word more about this repertoire—Sunday mornings rarely find her partaking of toast and coffee in Bat Cot. In defining every person in this more-or-less vale of joys and sorrows, one may find one word to best fit. And for the damsel with the suspicion of a sly smile, who reposes at the left of this, we have found our word. It's "serene." Ruth is serene in everything. Serenely going to heights in her studies, serene and firm in her friendships, serenely capable in her many outside activities which embrace everything from running a million-dollar drive to being assistant editor of the KALEID, and most serene in her possession of something on a certain finger of her left hand.

"Cobby" tumbled into college three years ago and has been tumbling about ever since. Her originality is quite remarkable. If you don't believe it just ask her how she got her nickname. We would tell you, but it is a long tale and the hint is sufficient. In this young lady, however, we have even more of a mystery to unravel that cannot be accomplished without considerable thought and patience. We have one clue to the case: We think she is preparing to take a long voyage on the sea of matrimony, for she is utterly devoted to that department most beneficial to those so inclined. However, she is young, and we hope she will see the error of her ways in time.

What ere she does, she does it well,
And we class her with the sharks.

"Red" is one of those too-few young ladies, who slip through college and do a heap of work calmly, with a business-like efficiency that would surpass a man, and a modesty that would shame him. Capability is her characteristic word as proven in many fields varying from excellent debating to fine bread-making. Her training in debate is especially valuable this year in arguing with relentless Romeos who besiege Hillside. She always takes the affirmative of that momentous question, "Resolved, That it is now ten o'clock, and therefore time for the last of the series of goodnights."

How may we know but what our room is the next to be stacked? If it is Saturday, of course, we may breathe easy for she is undoubtedly going to the gym. The Athletic Council

The Athletic Council is the advisory board on undergraduate athletic activities. All policies and schedules are passed by it before being submitted to the Undergraduate Association. Its membership consists of four faculty members, and six upperclassmen, who are not members of the Student Council. The managers of the major sport teams are ex-officio members of the board also.

SUMMARY

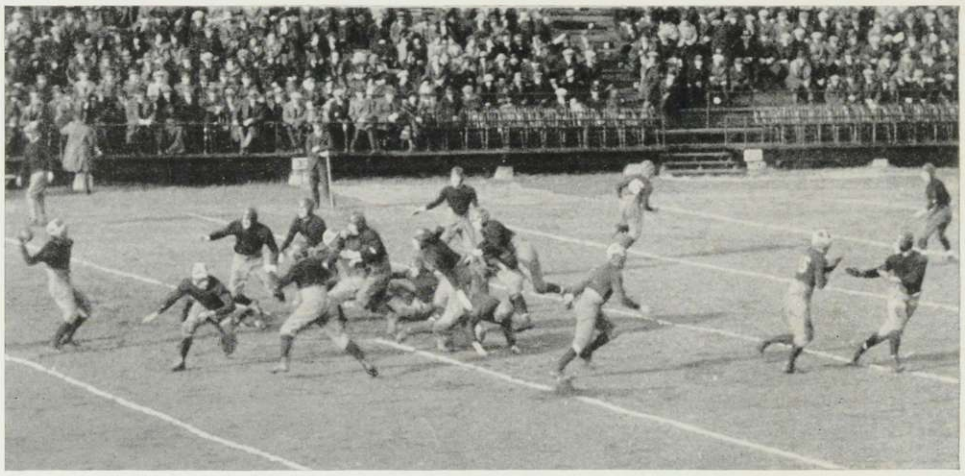
"The most glorious football season that a Middlebury team has ever enjoyed." Such is the general verdict concerning the football season of 1923, and the records show that it is no exaggeration. From the opening game with New Hampshire State to the closing conflict with Norwich, the team was displaying a brand of fighting football that returned it a victor in three contests, a defeated, but much respected opponent in three others, and earned it a tie in the remaining two games. One of these ties was the memorable game with Harvard, "the greatest game ever played by Middlebury," and an outstanding exhibition of courage and determination. Middlebury men can always point with pride to that encounter, which unmistakably demonstrated the calibre of her team. The Black Panthers scored a total of 105 points, and her opponents 55 during the season, the largest score against her being registered by Clarkson with a total of 14 points. This record speaks for itself. The Varsity line was one of the strongest in recent years, and proved a veritable stonewall to every opponent. To hold such teams as Harvard, Tufts, Columbia, and Vermont is proof enough of the quality of the linemen. And the manner in which the Blue backs crashed through those same lines, especially that of Columbia, gives us an additional thrill of pride.

Coach Morey received a fine response to his summons to spring practice in March, many new men putting in an appearance. In this way the Coach was able to get some impressions of the new men, and plan for the training camp in the fall, which opened on the tenth of September at Middlebury. After two weeks of intensive preliminary training, scrimmage began. The two halfback positions, and those of left guard and right end were left vacant by the graduation of Drost, Ashley, Kalin and Gallagher. To fill these was the Coach's problem, and how well he did it the season's record proves. Of the veteran linement, Captain Moynihan, Riegelman, Ehlert, Brosowsky, Yeaw, Potter, Mullen, Frank, Novotny, Bennett and McLaughlin returned, with Klevenow, Papke, Quackenbush, Hollquist. Williams, Lobo, Leary and Kilbride on hand to act as ball carriers. Of the new men, Cass and Chapin in the line, and Whitney and Carlton in the backfield gave the most promise. The task of filling the places of the graduates was not easy, but Coach Morey went about it with dispatch, and by the time of the first game had a well-drilled team ready to make the trip to Durham.



Papke Passing to Novotny—Vermont-Middlebury Game

NEW HAMPSHIRE STATE 0—MIDDLEBURY 21

Durham, N. H., September 29, 1923

On September 29, Middlebury journeyed to Durham, N. H., to play New Hampshire State in the first contest of the season. The State line outweighed Middlebury by about 10 pounds per man, but that handicap had little effect upon the outcome. Playing with a will, and in form that reflected the painstaking work of Coach Morey, the team romped through a 21 to 0 victory. N. H. State made only two first downs, while the Panthers made them practically at will. Papke scored the first touchdown in the first quarter on an end run of 23 yards, and Klevenow kicked the goal. In the second quarter, after consistent gaining through the line, Klevenow was sent through tackle for the second touchdown, and followed by kicking the goal. The third quarter was scoreless, but in the last quarter, Carlton circled left end for the final touchdown, and Klevenow made another goal from placement. All twenty-two men who made the trip played in the game, and Brosowsky was the only one to receive an injury. Carlton and Papke shone in the backfield, and Klevenow began his habit of kicking goals after touchdowns. The line, as a whole, showed to splendid advantage, and the entire team made a good impression for a first game performance.

UNION 7—MIDDLEBURY 7

Porter Field, October 6, 1923

This game which was expected to be fairly easy for Middlebury after the hard N. H. State game, was a distinct surprise. Union, with the best team it has boasted of in many years, came to Middlebury all set to spring a surprise. Coach Morey started the second team with the exception of Captain "Connie," and Union immediately started an offensive drive. She made no startling gains, but at a crucial moment a Middlebury back fumbled, and Bellinger, the visiting captain, nabbed it and crossed the line for their only touchdown. Union kicked the goal. The first team was soon pressed into play, and the game took a different aspect. Middlebury immediately opened up an attack that aroused high hopes of an early score, but the Union defense was working splendidly, and it was soon evident that no runaway game would take place. Finally, after consistent hammering at the line, Lobo crashed over for a touchdown in the second quarter, and Klevenow kicked the goal. During the second half the ball see-sawed up and down the field, the Panthers twice being within scoring distance, but a placement and a drop-kick failed, and the game ended with the ball on Union's 4-yard line. It was a hard game to have slip from our grasp, but Union's team was not a weak one by any means, and the game displayed by the team was a very creditable one, although the score was a surprise. Bellinger of Union was the outstanding star of the game.

Carlton

HARVARD 6—MIDDLEBURY 6

Harvard Stadium, October 13, 1923

Before a crowd of 25,000 people, 500 of whom were Middlebury undergraduates and alumni, the Middlebury College football team sprang the first of the season's surprises, and stamped its name indelibly in the annals of football by tying the mighty Harvard eleven in the Stadium. Entering the game as the underdog, but with the indomitable spirit that knows no defeat, the loyal sons of Middlebury fought as no Middlebury team ever did before, and in spite of Harvard's early lead, came back in the final period and tied the score. Harvard opened up auspiciously in the first quarter, but showed by the game she played that she did not undervalue her opponent. The first quarter was scoreless. In the second quarter, Harvard advanced well into Middlebury territory on line bucking, after recovering a fumble. From the 19-yard line Cheek went over for the first score, but Lee failed to kick the goal. The Blue team was playing valiantly, but it looked like a Harvard victory by a close score. As the half ended, the team left the field and went into conference with the coach. During this intermission, the coach must have uttered some most inspiring words, for when the team reappeared it seemed to have revived spirit and renewed courage. The third quarter was scoreless, but toward the end of it the Panthers were making some fine gains. Hollquist had made 13 yards through center, and in two more plays 8 more yards were gained, putting the ball within striking distance of the Crimson goal. There on the 23-yard line Papke held the ball, and "Marsh" Klevenow booted a placement for our first score. The crowd in the Stadium went wild, and the Middlebury cheering section was in ecstasy. A few plays after, a Harvard back fumbled and "Joe" Novotny fell on the ball, on the Harvard 30-yard line. After a couple of line plays which brought the ball directly in front of the goal posts, the combination of Papke and Klevenow again got busy, and the result was another boot from the 30-yard line. This was too much for even the most optimistic to believe, and the cheering of the Blue five hundred burst forth in a mighty uproar. Never had Middlebury men seen such a soul-stirring contest. With the score tied and the Middlebury team outplaying the Harvard eleven in most impressive style, the Harvard stands began to chant the "Fight, Harvard" cheer, something heretofore unheard of except in big games. Harvard used all she had, and even sent in Karl Pfaffman, her premier drop-kicker in a final effort to stave off the inevitable, but the clawing Panthers were aroused and they blocked every effort to gain. The game finally ended with the ball in Middlebury's possession well into her own territory. To the onlooker this was the best game of the season; one of the best we ever hope to see. Middlebury excelled in every department of the game except in punting, and in that Whitney and Quackenbush held their own with Hammond. The way that the Blue line held the vastly heavier Crimson line, and ripped up holes in the same on the offense was the wonder of the spectators. Ehlert, Reigleman, Mullen and Brosowsky starred in the line, while the work of Hollquist shone brightest among the backs. He seemed to be able to crash through the Harvard line almost at will. But to Papke and Klevenow must go the chief credit, for this industrious pair carried through the plays that humbled the famous Crimson and brought Middlebury's prowess to the attention of all football fans. To Coach Morey also, must go much credit for his great part in this, Middlebury's greatest football struggle. Those Middlebury men and women who were so fortunate as to see the game will always carry with them the memories of the plucky little band of warriors who furnished them with one of the greatest thrills of their lives. Truly, never can they forget that triumph of the Blue and

Whitney

CLARKSON 14—MIDDLEBURY 21

Porter Field, October 20, 1923

Clarkson came to Middlebury with a rather impressive early season record, and met a team playing with four regulars out on account of injuries. Clarkson's heavy line saved them in the first half, which was comparatively close. Both teams did some ground gaining, but neither was able to get within scoring distance of its opponents' goal. But in the second half, things were different. Middlebury opened up an aerial game that had the visitors baffled, and in short order they had scored. On the kickoff in the second half, Bennett received and ran the ball back 40 yards. Another aerial attack followed, and a pass from Whitney to Potter was completed near the goal, Potter crossing for a touchdown. Klevenow kicked the goal. Clarkson received and tried to advance, but failed after several attempts. They punted and Whitney ran back the punt 7 yards. Here the Panthers began another drive which was halted once, but which ended in a touchdown on another pass from "Slick" Whitney to "Mike" Papke. Klevenow did the usual. Soon after the fourth quarter began Lobo intercepted a pass and the march to the goal line began again. Line bucking failed so the passing game was opened up. A 15-yard pass put the ball on the visitors' 12-yard line, and another forward to Papke failed to score as "Mike" bumped into the goalpost, but he carried the ball over on the next play. Again Klevenow obliged with a goal. Coach Morey then sent in the second team with five minutes to play. After several minutes of play the third team was substituted. Clarkson scored on this combination twice within three minutes, by a passing and running attack. The game ended with the ball in the possession of the home team on its own 40-yard line. Bennett furnished the real thrill of the game with his long runback of a punt, but Whitney, Moynihan, Papke and Klevenow all played a fine game.

Novotny

Potter

TUFTS 6—MIDDLEBURY 3

Medford, Mass., October 27, 1923

This game was a decided disappointment to Middlebury. The stalwart Blue warriors held a 3 to 0 lead up to the last two minutes of play, only to have a long pass and a still longer run score the defeating touchdown. The regular line went into the game, with the exception of Ehlert, who was still suffering from an injury received at Harvard. For the first three quarters neither team was able to score, but in the first part of the final quarter Klevenow, the reliable, added another placement to his string of successful boots. The teams battled rather evenly during the first half, the Varsity holding the Jumbo's heavier line for downs once within the shadow of her own goal. The teams were so evenly matched that it looked like a Middlebury victory up until the last few minutes. Then Perry, Tufts' crack passer was sent into the game and a long pass to French, Jumbo's backfield ace, was successful. French, with perfect interference ran the necessary 40 yards for the deciding score. Middlebury tried vainly to score again but the time was too short to do so. The game was costly in another respect for Papke was so badly injured that he could not play for more than a week.

Riegelman

COLUMBIA 9—MIDDLEBURY 6

Baker Field, November 3, 1923

This game was another disappointment for the Blue, and particularly so because Middlebury outplayed Columbia for the greater part of the game, and made 11 first downs to Columbia's 1. Columbia kicked off and Hollquist received. After three plays had failed to gain materially, Quackenbush punted. On the next play the first break came. Jaeger, in some mysterious way, got through the center of Middlebury's defense and ran 46 yards for a touchdown. The goal was missed. Here Middlebury braced and took the offensive. The Panthers gained quite consistently, but at critical moments had passes intercepted or suffered penalties that prevented them from scoring. Columbia meanwhile could make no headway against the Blue defense, but in the third quarter Smitisch kicked a placement for the home team, after repeated attempts at line bucking had failed. The fourth quarter began with a fighting Middlebury team desperately trying to make the most of its power. Finally after a long pass, Papke to Lobo, and an end run by Lobo it was first down on Columbia's 7-yard line. Here Klevenow took the ball and went over for a touchdown. He did not get an opportunity to boot the goal as the pass was low and Papke failed to get it set in time to kick. The game ended shortly afterward with no further scoring. This was a decidedly hard game to lose for the Panthers showed marked superiority over Columbia in every department of the game except in generalship. Another blow to the Vermonters was the injury to Brosowsky, star tackle.

Ehlert

VERMONT 13—MIDDLEBURY 0

Centennial Field, November 12, 1923

This was one of the hard games typical of Vermont-Middlebury contests. Middlebury excelled in line bucking and on defense, but the splendidly perfected passing game of Vermont spelled the difference between victory and defeat. Gooch of Vermont was the star of the game, his passes to Semansky and Eastburn being the only scoring plays. He attempted 25 passes, and completed 10 of them. The Panthers were somewhat baffled by his superb passing in the first half, but in the second half came back strong and held the Green and Gold outfit even. Middlebury received the kickoff and in three successive first downs made 46 yards, only to lose the ball on downs on Vermont's 22-yard line. Here Yarnall punted and Middlebury ran it back about 7 yards. On the second play the Panthers pulled a surprise punt and gained considerable yardage. Vermont tried to gain through the line but failed, and Gooch then opened up the aerial game. A 15-yard pass, a penalty, another 12-yard pass, and finally a long pass to Semansky gave the home team their first touchdown, in the first quarter. In the second quarter, another long pass to Eastburn accomplished the same result. The Middlebury team seemed unable to cope with the accurate passing and fine receiving of the Green team. The half ended with the score standing 13 to 0 in favor of Vermont. During the intermission Coach Morey gave the team some valuable pointers, for they returned to the game with a will and repeatedly stopped Vermont's passes. Once a long pass to Manfreda gave them first down on Middlebury's 8-yard line, but the Blue line held like a stone wall and the ball changed hands on downs. Whitney promptly kicked out of danger. The fourth quarter like the third was scoreless, although Vermont threatened once after a long run by Payne, who seemed headed for a touchdown only to be overhauled and pulled down by "Slick" Whitney. The Panthers made some good gains through the line, but at critical moments had passes intercepted and lost the ball. The whistle blew with the ball in the Blue's possession deep in its own territory. Ehlert and Mullen distinguished themselves by their fine tackling, and Lobo proved the best ground gainer for the Blue. He and Papke were injured early in the game and forced to retire, their absence being keenly felt by the team.

Mullen

NORWICH 0—MIDDLEBURY 41

Porter Field, November 17, 1923

The last game of the season and the second game of the State Series found the Norwich Cadets playing the Panthers on Porter Field. The Cadets did not present their full strength due to injuries received in their game with Vermont, but they made the trip in anticipation of victory. Middlebury, too, was playing without the services of Papke, star quarterback. Norwich kicked off and Whitney received, running back the kick 8 yards. After three line bucks "Slick" punted and the receiver was downed in his tracks. Norwich punted and Middlebury settled down to take the offensive. Two passes Williams to Lobo and Whitney to Williams netted a score, and "Marsh" added the goal. There was no more scoring in the first quarter. Norwich had tried to take the offensive only once, and that time had failed dismally, so she was resorting to a kicking game. Middlebury lost the ball on a fumble, in the second quarter, but Klevenow intercepted a pass and the Panthers started for the goal line. Klevenow made three first downs for the Blue with his line plunging, and Hollquist carried the ball over from the 2-yard line for the second touchdown. Klevenow kicked the goal. Middlebury received the kickoff and was making rapid progress toward another score when the half ended. Norwich kicked off to begin the second half, Klevenow running the ball back 10 yards. Lobo ripped off a 10-yard gain through tackle; a pass Williams to Potter failed, and again "Andy" Lobo ran around the end for another 20 yards. A pass to Novotny, and Klevenow's plunge made first down. With the Blue backs alternating in carrying the ball two more first downs were registered, and Lobo went over for the third score. Klevenow varied the program by missing the goal. In the fourth period "Marsh" carried the ball over for a touchdown, and made good the point for goal. Here Lobo received the kickoff and tore through for 35 yards before being downed. A pass was intercepted by Norwich and the Red and Gold began a burst of real offensive work. A completed pass and 15 yards through the line put her within striking distance of the goal, but Whitney spoiled a chance to score when he intercepted a pass and ran it back 40 yards before being stopped. Here Hollquist replaced "Slick" who had played a fine game, and the crippled Papke, with his arm hanging helpless, went in for a few plays. Two touchdowns in five plays followed. Lobo, running wild, scored one on a pass, and another on a 50-yard run through the line. Williams drop-kicked both goals. With only a few minutes to play Middlebury tried for another score but Hollquist was stopped on the 4-yard line just as the final whistle blew. And so ended the final game of the 1923 football season, a fitting finish for a season replete with thrills—one which old Middlebury can ever point to with a feeling of pride.

Quackenbush

SUMMARY OF SEASON

Due to the late spring and inadequate facilities Coach Morey was unable to begin work with the baseball squad until well along in April. More than ever before, was the need of a baseball cage evident, and we hope before many seasons pass we will have one in which to carry on the early season practice so necessary to the development of teams such as Middlebury should have. Captain Hastings, Gallagher, Klevenow, Papke, Daly, Timberman, Kilbride, D. Ross Witham, White and Herzig were the veterans to report. In addition to these men a likely-looking group of Freshmen reported to bolster up the team and fill the places made vacant by the loss of Stockwell, Hulihan and Conley. The delay in starting practice made the work of Coach Morey more difficult than ever, but as soon as the weather permitted, the squad was out on Porter Field working in earnest. Even with this handicap the team came through the season with an average of .500, a remarkable showing under the circumstances. The season opened with two home games, Lowell Tech and New York State Teachers' College being the first opponents. Chief Bender, an old teammate of Coach Morey on the Philadelphia Athletics, spent several days in Middlebury early in the season helping round the team into shape.

LOWELL TEXTILE 10—MIDDLEBURY 5

The baseball season was officially opened on April 25 by Dean Wiley, who tossed out the first ball. The day was cold and raw, a most disagreeable one for a game, and this condition affected the work of the players. Lowell Textile, which had earlier in the season tied Holy Cross, presented a strong team—one well fitted to give Morey's men a real stiff workout. Captain "P. O." Hastings started on the mound and was hit freely. Lowell scored three runs in the first inning and duplicated the feat in the third, piling up a lead that they held throughout the game. Middlebury had little trouble solving the delivery of Farwell, the visiting pitcher, but at critical moments he seemed able to turn them back. In total hits the visitors made only one more than the home team, a total of eight to the Blue's seven. Towne succeeded Hastings in the box in the seventh and turned the visitors back with only one hit. His work was the shining light in an otherwise disappointing game.

Gallagher

NEW YORK STATE TEACHERS 1—MIDDLEBURY 10

By the 27th the temperature had risen about thirty degrees and the effect upon the Varsity was marked. The Teachers did not show the strength that was expected and the Panthers had little difficulty in piling up a comfortable lead early in the game. After scoring twice in the first inning and four times in the second the team let up a bit, and the Coach sent in the men who were warming the bench. Middlebury scored four more runs during the game. Witham started in the box, but gave way in the fourth to Towne, who in turn was succeeded by Williams in the seventh. Only two hits were collected by the visitors during the game, Middlebury making eleven. Novotny, playing right field, starred at the bat, making three hits in three trips to the plate, and Captain "P. O." made himself conspicuous by stealing five bases. The whole team played well and showed much improvement since the first game.

WORCESTER POLYTECHNIC INSTITUTE 4—MIDDLEBURY 12

On May 1 the team left for a five-day trip through Southern New England, the following men making the trip: Captain Hastings, Gallagher, Klevenow, Papke, Whitney, Kilbride, Martin, Novotny, Ross, Towne, Witham, Williams, White and Daly. The first game was with Worcester Tech at Worcester on May 2. The team was in fine fettle, and played a steady game defeating Worcester by the score of 12 to 4. Towne pitching for the Blue allowed only three hits, while the Panthers garnered fifteen from the opposing slabmen. Novotny again starred at bat, hitting especially well in the pinches.

Klevenow

BOSTON COLLEGE 14—MIDDLEBURY 5

On May 3 the team journeyed to Boston to play Boston College, one of the strongest teams in the East. The Eagles started in with a rush, scoring once in the first inning, four times in the second, and maintaining the lead throughout. In the seventh inning, six hits and an error netted five runs for the Panthers, but even such a rally was insufficient to overcome the big lead of their rivals. It was a regular slugging match, Boston College making fifteen hits and Middlebury eleven. Martin, Gallagher and Witham did the best stickwork for the Blue. Williams, Witham and Hastings did the pitching, Williams proving the most effective.

Papke

BOSTON UNIVERSITY 4—MIDDLEBURY 3

The second day in Boston found the Panthers smarting under the defeat administered by Boston College and looking for revenge on Boston University. The ensuing game was a close one, the outcome being in doubt until the last ball was pitched. Towne did the twirling for Middlebury and showed much stuff. He sent eight men back to the bench by the strikeout route, and assisted in putting out six more at first. Each team made ten hits, but Boston University bunched several in the seventh for the winning scores. Middlebury scored two in the sixth, and one in the seventh, overcoming the one run lead of Boston University which had existed since the third. With two men out and two on bases Carlson of Boston University came to bat in the seventh. Two strikes were called and then he walloped one. Far out it sailed over the heads of the outfielders, and in romped the two baserunners closely followed by Carlson. This changed the aspect of the game entirely. Middlebury tried valiantly to score again in the eighth, but Carlson again intervened, snaring Martin's long fly, that looked good for extra bases, and doubling Gallagher off second for the final out. In the last inning Middlebury did not threaten at all, and the game ended with the score 4 to 3 in favor of Boston University. Kilbride starred at bat, with three hits in four times up. Hastings and Klevenow also made two hits in four times at bat.

PROVIDENCE COLLEGE 2—MIDDLEBURY 4

The next day the team went to Providence and took on Providence College. Williams started in the box for the Blue and White and pitched a very fine game. The Providence team found it difficult to touch his offerings and were able to score only two runs. Novotny again came through with a three-bagger in a pinch, clouting in the first two runs. Hastings scored the third on a squeeze play with Martin at the bat, and Papke scored the last run on a two-bagger, a steal and a wild throw. The trip ended with the team maintaining a .500 average, in games against teams that had enjoyed much longer seasons of preparation.

JUNIOR WEEK GAMES

ST. LAWRENCE UNIVERSITY 0—MIDDLEBURY 5

On May 10, before the guests and student body of the College the Varsity met and defeated St. Lawrence in the finest game of the season, and probably the best baseball game ever played on Porter Field. "Frankie" Towne pitching for the Blue, turned back the St. Lawrence batters in order, allowing not one of them to see first base. He struck out ten men, and never gave the slightest semblance of a pass. He struck out two batters in the first, and the entire side in the fifth, and allowed only three balls to be hit to the outfield. Most of the balls hit were popped up to the infield. "Frankie" pitched slowly and methodically, with the demeanor of a veteran, and the team played perfect ball behind him. The visitors never seemed to be able to fathom his delivery, and as the game progressed he grew better and better. When the game was well along and the crowd sensed the possibility of a no-hit game they began encouraging Towne to keep up his fine work, and this he did to the satisfaction of the most critical. Not only did he hold them hitless, but not an opposing batter did he allow to reach first, thereby completing the rarest of all events in baseball, a perfect game. It was a most remarkable exhibition of twirling and the ovation given him as the game ended was only fitting recognition of the feat he had accomplished. While he was busy turning back the opponents his mates were equally busy with the stick, piling up a comfortable lead to give him confidence. In the fifth inning after Kilbride had flied out, and Towne struck out, "Slick" Whitney hit safely, stole second, and came in on "P. O.'s" two-bagger. "P. O." pilfered second and later counted on Novotny's double, but Martin was thrown out at first to end the inning. Two runs looked big with Towne going as he was. Middlebury failed to score in the sixth and seventh, but in the eighth inning the boys went at it again. Novotny flied out to short, but Martin and "Rip" singled, and both crossed the plate on Klevenow's two-bagger. Papke flied to catcher, but "Larry" Kilbride met one squarely and reached third before the ball was retrieved, Klevenow scoring in the meantime. He was left stranded on third as the inning ended. The game ended with no further scoring, the occupants of the stands swooping down to carry Towne in triumph back to the Gym. It was a very fine game to watch, and gave our Junior Week visitors something to talk about for a long time.

Martin

BOWDOIN 5—MIDDLEBURY 4

The next day, Bowdoin with the reputation of having a very strong team landed in town to battle with the Panthers, but she did not prove as formidable an antagonist as was expected. In the very first inning Whitney singled and came in on Novotny's three-bagger. "Joe" scored a few minutes later on "Chuck" Martin's single. Bowdoin chalked up a marker in the third, and threatened in the fourth but was turned back. The Blue scored one in this inning, however, two walks and an error letting Kilbride dent the rubber. In the fifth Novotny walloped a two-bagger but was caught stealing and the inning ended without a score. In the seventh Bowdoin scored three runs on a walk and two infield errors, putting them one run ahead. Middlebury came back in the eighth and tied the score. In the ninth Williams walked the first batter, and let the next reach first on his error. The third man singled and Witham relieved Williams. The first man to face Witham went back to the bench after three healthy but fruitless strikes. Kilbride's throw to catch the runner off second was poor, and the man on third romped home with the deciding run, giving Bowdoin the game 5 to 4, as Middlebury failed to score in her half of the ninth. This was a hard game to lose as the home team outhit the visitors by eleven hits to nine, but errors at critical moments spelled disaster. Bowdoin, too, played a ragged game, making seven errors to five.

Towne

ST. MICHAEL'S 6—MIDDLEBURY 1

St. Michael's won the first of the State Championship games on May 17 by a score of 6 to 1, the game developing into a hard-hitting contest in the last innings. Williams started in well, holding the Purple scoreless for five innings, and to give him encouragement his mates scored in the first by a steal of home by Captain "P. O.". For those first five innings "Frosty" had everything on the ball, sending seven men back to the bench by the strikeout route, but in the fifth, three successive hits drove him to cover, and "Jack" Witham succeeded him. "Jack" got by with only two runs scoring on the one hit he allowed. In the sixth a collection of errors enabled the Purple and Gold to score again. Four hits in the eighth, one of them a double netted three more runs for St. Michael's. Middlebury found it impossible to cross the rubber for another score. Gallagher again was the clubbing hero with three hits in four times at bat. Strikeout honors were even, each team having ten men sent to the bench by that method.

VERMONT 4—MIDDLEBURY 1

The next day found our ancient rival, Vermont, appearing on Porter Field for the first of the season's encounters between the two teams. Ideal weather conditions prevailed, and a large crowd was present to see the game. Towne pitched for the home team and did very creditable work except in a couple of innings when his wildness, coupled with errors behind him, enabled the Green team to score. Conlin, the first Vermont batter, walked, and was sent along to second on a sacrifice. McGinnis was safe on "Rip's" error, and stole on the next play. Bradley hit, scoring Conlin and McGinnis, but Towne settled down and struck out Eastburn and Carney, thus preventing further scoring. No more runs were scored until the sixth. In the meantime, Middlebury had not been able to dent the plate. In the fifth, however, "Rip" tripled over the left field fence putting the Blue in a fine scoring position. Klevenow was thrown out by Duba, but the same player fumbled Papke's grounder and the runner scored. "Mike" stole second, but was left marooned when Kilbride and Towne flied out. In the sixth Chevalier walked, McGinnis reached first on "Marsh" Klevenow's error, Bradley bunted and Chevalier attempted to score but was trapped between third and home. He seemed to be about to be put out, but instead he slipped around Kilbride for another run. Carney followed with a hit scoring McGinnis, but Towne forced the next two men to pop up and they were easy outs. This ended the scoring for Vermont, and Middlebury too was unable to make any more counters. In the seventh Gallagher again tripled but was left stranded on third when Klevenow flied out and Papke was thrown out. Gallagher with his two triples in four times at bat was the batting star. Both Vermont and Middlebury made four hits, but those of Vermont came at critical times when walks and errors had placed them in scoring position. Towne struck out four and Durgin five.

VERMONT 12—MIDDLEBURY 1

On the 24th Middlebury journeyed to Burlington to play the second game with Vermont. The game which was expected to be close after the previous encounter at

Kilbride

Middlebury, developed into a walkaway for the Green and Gold. Towne started in the box but was hit freely from the first. Hits coupled with errors enabled Vermont to score five runs in the first, two in the second, and three in the third. That ended Williams who had relieved Towne in the first. Witham took up the burden and was scored upon twice in the fourth, due to infield errors. From that time on he held the Green and Gold team scoreless. Middlebury was unable to chalk up a run until the ninth, when Klevenow singled, Daly batting for Papke sacrificed, and Timberman batting for Kilbride bumped a single to left bringing in Klevenow with the only run. Yarnall then fanned Whitney, and "P. O." grounded out to end the rally. Middlebury made only five hits to Vermont's eleven, but outdid the Green in the matter of errors by ten to two. Yarnall fanned eleven, and Witham two.

RENSSELAER POLYTECHNIC 4—MIDDLEBURY 7

This game was a direct reversal of the form displayed by the Varsity in the Vermont games. Hastings did the box-work and performed very well, striking out seven. The Middlebury batters recovered from their slump in the last three games and slugged with a vengeance. No scoring occurred until the fifth, when Whitney, Hastings and Novotny all tripled in succession, scoring two runs. In the fourth, Martin was thrown out, but "Rip" tripled and scored on Klevenow's single. Papke flied out, advancing "Marsh" who scored on Daly's hit. In the ninth Whitney walked. "P. O." sacrificed, Novotny singled scoring Whitney, and Gallagher followed with another triple clearing the bases. All the Panthers were hammering the ball. Gallagher and Novotny each hit safely four times in four trials, and Whitney and Klevenow made three in four times at bat. The Engineers managed to push across a pair of runs in the fourth and two more in the seventh by bunching hits.

NORWICH UNIVERSITY 7—MIDDLEBURY 10

On May 29 the Black Panthers took a trip to Norwich for the fourth game of the State series and took the Cadets into camp by the score of 10 to 7 in a heavy-hitting contest. Both teams scored once in the first inning, and in the third the Cadets came through with two more. Here Towne was relieved by "Frosty", who fared no better, Norwich tallying four time in the fourth. The Blue tallied once in the same inning making the score 7 to 2 in favor of the home team. This looked like a handicap almost too large to be overcome, but the team kept hammering away, and in the fifth they clouted Moulton to the showers collecting five runs. Styles succeeded him in the sixth, but he was battered roundly too. Three runs in the sixth and one in the eighth were his contributions. Witham held Norwich scoreless after he succeeded Williams in the fourth. Klevenow starred at the bat with a triple, double and single in four times up, while Martin played a fine game in the field.

NORWICH UNIVERSITY 1—MIDDLEBURY 21

The next day the Cadets came over to this side of the State to continue the rivalry. Captain Hastings opposed Styles in the box. Just to prove the previous game was not a flash in the pan, the Blue team jumped on Styles for three runs in the first, and then in the second continued the parade, scoring seven runs after two men were out, on six hits and five errors. She counted three in the fourth, and four each in the seventh and eighth for a total of twenty-one runs and fifteen hits. Norwich was unable to score until the ninth when an outfield error enabled a man to reach third, from where he scored on a single. Hastings pitched well, and the entire team enjoyed a good batting practice, although the many errors of the Cadets helped in no small way to swell the score. This was the final game of the season as the game with St. Michael's for June 6 was cancelled.

The team had a reasonably successful season, finishing with an average of .500 in 14 games, but the severe handicap of a late start had much bearing on the showing of the team early in the season.

SUMMARY OF SEASON

Coach Brown issued a call for track candidates early in the second semester in order to get his team lined up for the heavy schedule arranged. The loss of Robinson, Potratz, and Cole of the previous year's championship team was felt, but with the bolstering of the Freshman class, the prospects for another crack team were bright. Captain Shelvey, Kendall, Oliver, Wexler, Carboy, Cook, Doolittle, Krichbaum, Whitten, Lobo, Gray, Hollquist, Peck, Sikorski, Tully, P. Whitney, Leary and Palmer were the veterans returned. These men formed a good nucleus around which the team could be built. A squad of 60 men was soon reporting three times a week for the early training, and the outlook seemed very promising. The late spring made outdoor practice impractical so the work was carried on in the gymnasium. The meet scheduled with Williams was earlier than those of previous years and a number of men remained in Middlebury during the Easter vacation to continue their training.

The first meet, the dual meet with Williams came on April 28, immediately following the Easter recess. It was looked forward to as a real test, for the Williams team was up to the usual standard. The day of the meet was a cold and raw one, with a drizzling rain adding to the discomforts of the day. The track was in very poor shape and the showing of the men under the circumstances was unusual. Williams captured the contest by excelling in the track events, despite the fact that Middlebury carried off most of the honors in the field events. The Williams sprinters copped 17 of the possible 18 points in their events, but Shelvey and Fish came through in fine style in the mile. The most interesting race was the quarter, featuring a gruelling contest between "Doc" Cook and Stowers, the Williams Captain. Cook led the greater part of the way only to be overhauled and nosed out in the last few yards by a whirlwind finish on the part of his rival. This race was run on a track which for yards was covered with water an inch in depth, so the time made was exceptional. In the field events Sikorski proved his mettle. He scored a total of 12 points, making him high point man of the meet, with Miller, the Williams speed demon a close second.

On May 5 the R. P. I. track team, which Middlebury had defeated the previous year, came to town looking for revenge. They caught the Blue team in poor shape for a meet, since Cook was ailing, and Tully and Whitten were not able to compete. This handicap had much to do with the outcome of the meet for had these men been in good form Middlebury would in all probability have won, for another second place credited to the Panthers would have changed the result. The meet was captured by the Engineers by the score of 70 to 65, in one of the closest contests ever seen on Porter Field. Shea of the visitors was the individual high point man, winning the two dashes, and finishing second in the quarter, and third in the broad jump.

On the 8th the Black Panthers took the trip to Norwich to compete with the Norwich and Vermont teams for the State Championship. And once again history repeated itself in the victory of the Blue team over its rivals. The Panthers scored more points than did the two opponents put together, piling up a total of 73 1/3 points, to 36⅔ for Vermont and 25 for Norwich. The day was wet and the track slow, so no records were hung up. Cook proved the individual star garnering 13 points for his team, while Bellerose of Norwich followed him with 12. Cook copped the quarter and the broad jump, and finished second in the 220. Crane, a newcomer, ran a pretty race to win the hundred, while Carboy led the pack in the two-twenty. Shelvey won his event but was disqualified, giving another place to a Vermont man. In the low hurdles Hollquist, Peck, and Carlton finished one, two three. In the relay, the team of Kendall, Gray, Fish and Shelvey running in the order named, had no difficulty hanging another win up on the scoreboard.

Immediately following the close of the football season Coach P. C. Perkins called out the candidates for the basketball team. About twenty-five men responded to the call, among whom were Captain Axtell, Hollquist and Knowles, the only letter men remaining from last year's squad. With only these three veterans left, the task of the new coach was conceded to be a difficult one. Practice started immediately, and the work of building up a team was begun. The one-year rule being still in effect, no recruits could be obtained from the Freshman class, making the task even more difficult. Lamb, Fish, W. R. Rice, R. L. Rice, F. B. Rich, Towne and McNeil of last year's squad were among those who reported. The final cut left the following men on the Varsity squad: Fish and Riegelman, centers; Axtell, Lamb, R. L. Rice, Rich, and McNeil, forwards; and Knowles, Hollquist, W. R. Rice and Klevenow, guards.

The season opened on December 15 with Clarkson playing Middlebury on the home court. Clarkson, with a veteran team and a fine record, proved a worthy opponent. The Varsity presented a fine defensive game, but proved unable to penetrate the opponents' defense and consequently were unable to score sufficiently often to win the game. Clarkson led at half time, and in a short rally in the second half piled up a lead that the Panthers could not overcome. Fish playing center made three baskets and outjumped his opponent consistently, proving the star of the home team. Bucher, the visiting center, also played well. During the game the coach tried out his entire second team, and made the most of the opportunity to test out his system of play, a system new to Middlebury basketball. The final score was 22-13 in favor of the visitors.

On December 19 the team journeyed to Cambridge and played Harvard there. During the first half Middlebury played a five-man defensive game, and Harvard ran up a score of 20 to 2. In the second half the team switched to a man-to-man defense and startled the Crimson with a brilliant rally that kept the scoring even for a time. Toward the end of the half, the Harvard men gradually pulled ahead and at the close led 39-17. Knowles was the star for the Blue, while Rudofsky and Samboroski, the Crimson guards, scored 20 points for their team.

The Cadets from Norwich invaded Middlebury on January 12 to tame the Panther, but left with their purpose unfulfilled. The Blue and White team pulled out its first win of the season at their expense, to the tune of 22-15. Neither team could score frequently, due to the close guarding, but at half-time Middlebury led 10-6. The second team started the second half, and was unable to score although it held the visitors away from the basket as well. When the first team was injected into the fray shortly before the beginning of the third quarter, the complexion of the game was changed. Immediately, they started scoring and were never headed. The scoring honors were evenly divided; R. L. Rice leading with 5 points, closely followed by Fish, Lamb, Knowles and Hollquist with 4 points each.

Middlebury met defeat at the hands of the Williams quintet at Williamstown on January 16 by the score of 35-22. Fisher, the Purple center, ran wild, scoring 11 goals and 7 fouls, the Blue team seeming unable to hold him. His great height and reach made him an extremely difficult man to guard, and he made the most of his abilities. The Panthers were effective in preventing the rest of the team from scoring frequently, but Fisher's effectiveness proved too much to overcome. Lamb was high point man for the Blue with 4 baskets and 1 foul, while Hollquist and Rice played well on the defense.

On January 18 was played one of the best games of the year, when the home team met the fast New Hampshire team in McCullough Gymnasium. The game was fast and interesting and at no time did either team enjoy more than a five-point lead. New Hampshire took the lead and held it all through the first half, the score at the end of that period being 12-10. Early in the second half Middlebury tied the score at 13 all. The lead then see-sawed back and forth until the final five minutes, when with the Blue leading by one point New Hampshire switched her style of play and ran up several baskets for a sufficient margin to win. The final score was 29-22. The Middlebury team showed a good offense and fine teamwork, and they appeared to at last have struck their stride. Lamb was high point man with 4 goals and 2 fouls, but the whole team played well together. Fish was handicapped by the ankle injury received in the Williams game, but he displayed a good brand of basketball, nevertheless. For the visitors Metcalf and McKinley featured.

On February 6 the team went to Burlington to play the St. Michael's five there. The game was played on a small court, and the team seemed unable to hit its stride, being nosed out at the end by the score of 30-27. The Panthers were not up to the form of the past few games, but in spite of this fact made the game close and interesting to watch. Rich, the ex-yearling captain, played in his first Varsity game here, the advent of the one-semester rule in place of the one-year rule making it possible for him to be advanced to the Varsity squad. He played a fine game and fitted well into the team play.

Springfield College sent up its quintet to compete with the Black Panthers at McCullough Gymnasium on February 8. Springfield, New England champions last year, presented a fast team, one capable of giving the best college teams stiff competition. Middlebury started off with a rush, scoring four baskets to the visitors' one in the first few minutes of play. Rich sank the first from the center of the court, and Rice followed with another. They alternated in the next two, and the Springfield team called time out for a consultation. At the end of the first quarter the Varsity still led, but Fish was put out on four personals, and by the end of the half the home team was forced to surrender the lead to the visitors who held it throughout the game. The Blue showed its best game to date, Rich especially proving brilliant. He scored a total of 21 points besides displaying some fine floor work. The work of the Middlebury guards was exceptional, Rice and Hollquist repeatedly breaking up the splendid passing game of the Springfield team. Oosting, all-New England guard, showed some dazzling floor work, and proved a good man on both the offense and defense. The final score was 43-28.

The finest home game of the season took place on February 13 when the Panthers encountered their traditional rivals from the shores of Lake Champlain. Vermont with the finest team it had boasted in years came to town determined to trim Middlebury handily, but the Blue team sprang a surprise on them. Playing their best game of the season, the Panthers fought with the Green and Gold quintet on even terms for the greater part of the game, losing only in the last two minutes of play. Rich again proved his mettle with 6 goals and 6 fouls, but the whole team played in a manner that was a revelation to the fans. At the end of the first half they trailed by only one point, and the lead changed back and forth all during the early part of the second half. With the score tied at 23 all and only two minutes to play, the Vermonters opened up a frantic attack to pull the game out of the fire. Yarnall and Semansky, their two shining lights of the evening, each contributed a basket and the game ended with the score 27-23 in their favor. The Blue and White team played a game that was a credit to them, and their perfofmance against the team that had trimmed Yale and several other large university teams was truly meritorious.

On February 15 the Panthers defeated the New York State Teachers' College team at Albany by the score of 21-15, in a slow and poorly played game. Coach Perkins took advantage of his opponents' weakness to make use of his second team. The guarding of the Blue was particularly effective, the opposing forwards failing to make a single field goal during the game. Gainor and Fish, the opposing centers, played best for their respective teams.

The next night, February 16, found Middlebury playing its second game with Springfield on their court. The home team was without the services of Oosting, their star, but they displayed a fine brand of basketball, nevertheless. Rich again loomed up as the finest player on the floor, scoring 9 goals and 2 fouls for a total of 20 points. His floor work, passing and shooting was phenomenal, his individual efforts being largely responsible for the closeness of the score. His feat of scoring 41 points against Springfield in two games stamps him as one of the best players in the game. The final score was 35-28 in favor of Springfield.

Middlebury celebrated Washington's Birthday with a win over Norwich at Northfield. The slippery condition of the court seriously handicapped the fast Blue forwards in the first half, but in the second they found themselves and rapidly piled up the score. Rich with 6 baskets and "Shorty" Rice with 4 led in the scoring. At no time did the Cadets threaten to take the lead, and the game ended with Middlebury leading 42-28. Captain Pencheon starred for the losers.

On February 26 St. Michael's visited Middlebury, and were trimmed to the tune of 20-16. The Varsity was not up to its usual game, but played sufficiently well to defeat the visitors and avenge its defeat at their hands in Burlington. Fish played well, scoring 3 goals and holding Captain Delaney, reputed to be one of the best players in the State, to 2 goals. Rich led the team in scoring with 8 points, although he was not up to his usual form. The Blue and White team took the lead at the start of the game on field goals by Lamb and Fish, and was never headed throughout.

At Burlington on the following night, the final game of the season with Vermont proved a surprise and reversal of form wholly unexpected. Middlebury had previously held the Vermont team to a very close score, and another exciting game was expected. Vermont, however, piled up a lead early in the game, and was never in danger. Repeatedly Middlebury tried to rally, but her efforts failed to accomplish anything more than to stop temporarily the offense of the Green hoopsters. Rich was closely watched and was unable to do much scoring, but he accounted for the only goals made by the Blue. Rice made 2 fouls, and Knowles 1, which added to Rich's two goals and 4 fouls completed the scoring for Middlebury. Yarnall and Captain Cayward led the Vermont offense, Yarnall scoring 11 points and Cayward 16. The final score was 52-11.

This ended the basketball season, one which was not particularly successful in games won, but which brought out some fine material and left much promise for greater things next year. Every man on the team with the exception of Captain Axtell, is eligible to play next year, and the experience and training should prove of much assistance in moulding a strong team for the coming season. Coach Perkins was seriously handicapped by the lack of both veteran and new material, and the showing of the team reflects credit upon him.

ROBERT F. PFLUEGER ..... Assistant Manager

Ten men reported for the first cross-country practice, and the first meet with Harvard was held in Boston, October 12. The race was run over the Belmont Park course and the Panthers were defeated by the score of 17 to 38. Cook, the first Middlebury man to finish, ended up in fifth place, with Hancock, a Freshman, trailing him. The time of the race was 34 minutes, 25 seconds.

On November 3, the R. P. I. team came to Middlebury to test our men out over the six-mile course. Cook finished first, reducing his record to 34 minutes, 1½ seconds, but the R. P. I. men bunched in behind him close enough to give them the meet by the score of 26 to 29.

On November 12, as a part of the Armistice Day celebration at Burlington, the team met that of Vermont. Over a course that was muddy and hilly Cook again led his men to victory, Middlebury winning by a score of 36 to 19. Cook finished first in 35 minutes, 48 seconds, and brought his cross-country career to a glorious close by aiding in bringing defeat to Middlebury's greatest rival.

The following men were awarded letters in the sport: Cook, Fish, Hancock, Robinson, Kelly, Lathrop.

Tennis, Season of 1923

S. E. Ashley.....Manager

L. I. Bonney.....Coach

Tennis, the popular spring sport, aroused more interest during the 1923 season than at any time previous. The late spring made early practice impossible, but there were many waiting to step onto the courts as soon as they were in fit condition to do so. The construction of the new courts behind Hepburn Hall also stimulated interest in the sport, providing a sufficient number of courts to meet the demands of the students.

Ashley and Rich were the only veterans left from the 1922 tennis team around which to build a new one. With these two men as a nucleus and the addition of several new members to the squad Coach Bonney was able to put a good team in the field. The first match was with Holy Cross at Worcester on May 2. The courts had been in no condition to play for any time previous to the match, so the team entered it handicapped by having had only one day's practice to round into shape. The team consisted of Ashley, Rich, Clowar and Twichell. Holy Cross team in mid-season form proved too strong an opponent for the Middlebury team, and they were defeated in every match.

On May 19 Vermont team came to Middlebury for the first of the two matches between the institutions. She was successful in capturing five events to Middlebury's one, although they all were closely contested. Rich and Clowar won their doubles event for the only point Middlebury scored.

On May 26 a return match was played at Burlington resulting in the same score as that of the previous one, 5-1, in favor of Vermont. In this match the Middlebury counter was scored by Fletcher and Myers, through their triumph in the doubles event.

The team: S. E. Ashley, '23, F. B. Rich, '25, P. Fletcher, '24, L. E. Clowar, '25, E. S. Twichell, '26, W. P. Myers, '25.

Shortly after the opening of college in the fall it was announced that a Tennis Tournament to decide the singles' champion of each class and of the college would be conducted. This aroused much interest in the sport, there being many entries from each class. An elimination contest was held among the members of each class and the winners were then matched against each other to decide the championship. A fine gold emblem was offered as the prize for the winner. The tennis courts near the Chemistry Building were reserved at certain hours every day for the games of the tournament, and they were run off as fast as possible. The class elimination contests resulted in the following men winning the championship of their respective classes: Class of '24, Paris Fletcher; class of '25, F. B. Rich; class of '26, Edward S. Hickcox; class of '26, M. J. Rich. In the semi-finals Fletcher was matched against F. B. Rich, and Hickcox against M. J. Rich. The Rich brothers both emerged from the semi-final round victorious, and so were matched in the finals. This match proved a most interesting and hard-fought one, going the full five sets, and finally being won by F. B. Rich, '25. The scores by sets were as follows: 6-1; 1-6; 6-4; 0-6; 6-4.

This tournament was of great interest to the students, and bids fair to become a permanent feature of the tennis program each year.

The tennis schedule for the season of 1924 is more extensive than ever before, and provides ample stimulation for the increasing interest in the sport.

Hockey

Hockey, a minor sport, inaugurated at Middlebury in 1922 proved so popular that a more pretentious schedule was arranged for this year. Several veterans were lost from last year's squad through graduation, but those left formed a good nucleus for the 1923 team. A rink was constructed on the tennis courts near Chemistry Building and practice commenced as soon as the ice permitted. The team was coached by Coach Drost. The following is the season's record of the team:

Jan. 18—Union	3	Middlebury	0	at Schenectady
Jan. 19—R. P. I.	2	Middlebury	0	at Troy
Feb. 8—Clarkson Tech	2	Middlebury	0	at Middlebury
Feb. 9—St. Michael's	2	Middlebury	1	at Burlington
Feb. 16—U. V. M.	3	Middlebury	1	at Middlebury
Feb. 22—St. Michael's	1	Middlebury	1	at Middlebury
Feb. 23—U. V. M.	3	Middlebury	0	at Burlington

The game with Union was played under adverse circumstances, on a small rink and on soft ice, but proved interesting nevertheless. R. P. I. was able to battle to a victory only after two extra over-time periods. This game was fast and marked by fine playing by both teams. Clarkson with a fine team met Middlebury at home and found it a sturdy opponent at all times dangerous. The visitors won, but only after the most strenuous of efforts. In the St. Michael's game at Burlington, the two teams were very evenly matched, the winning score being made near the close of the game. Fletcher of Middlebury and Papineau of St. Michael's accounted for their team's scores. On February 16, U. V. M. invaded Middlebury and managed to carry off the bacon after a well-fought game. U. V. M. scored one in the first period, but Fletcher of Middlebury tied the score in the second period. The teams then fought on even terms until the last period when Vermont managed to slip two more goals through the Middlebury defense. This game was marked by some fine work by both teams. The St. Michael's game at Middlebury was the finest of the season. The teams fought desperately to win but were tied at one all at the end of the game. No over-time periods were played as the visitors had to catch a train. Leary proved the star of the contest for Middlebury; his goal being the big factor in staving off defeat. The last game at Burlington against U. V. M. resulted in a victory for our rival by a score of 3-0.

Peck, '24, Taking-off from New Chipman Hill Ski-jump

The team: P. Fletcher (Captain-Manager), J. J. Leary, W. J. McLaughlin, D. F. Weekes, J. R. Connelly, Jr., E. S. Twichell, J. L. Finnegan.

Outing Club

Due to the interest that was displayed by the students in winter sports during 1922-1923 it was decided to build a ski-jump on Chipman Hill for use during the past winter. The plan was carried out, and gave an added interest to the winter sport program.

As last year, a Winter Carnival was held on Washington's Birthday on the lower campus and on Chipman Hill. The snowshoe and ski dashes, obstacle races, and relays were held on the lower campus in the morning, followed by a baseball game between the upper and lower classmen. In the afternoon the scene of the Carnival was transferred to Chipman Hill where the ski-jumping events were held. There were many entries and considerable interest in these newly-added events. Besides the ski-jumping there were also added events for co-eds which attracted considerable interest. The class of '24 won the Carnival with 39 points, followed by the class of '26 with 32 points, and the class of '25 with 12 points.

No team was entered in the events at the Dartmouth Carnival, but a team consisting of Peck, Tully, Hollquist and Grow represented Middlebury at the McGill Carnival. The Blue placed third in the meet through the virtue of a third place in the ski relay, first place going to McGill, and second to Dartmouth.

Middlebury's Mountain Campus—Breadloaf Mountain

Beginning with the fall semester of 1923 Middlebury put into effect the one-year residence rule in athletics. This was not passed because of any unsavory conditions at Middlebury, but rather as a measure to prevent any smirch upon her name, and to keep in step with the trend of the times in isolating professionalism. The embracing of this policy made it necessary for Middlebury to broaden its athletic program to include Freshman teams. And this in turn demanded more equipment and additional facilities for taking care of the new branches of sport. The Freshman football team of 1923 was seriously handicapped by the lack of a playing field, but with the completion of the new gridiron that condition will be remedied in the future. Basketball teams can be accommodated in the Gymnasium without too great inconvenience, but the matter of separate baseball and track teams caused much concern. In cognizance of this fact, the Board of Trustees at the suggestion of the Undergraduate Association amended the one-year rule to read as a one-semester rule. This retained the spirit of the original action, but at the same time obviated the difficulties which the maintaining of Varsity and Freshman track and baseball teams would cause. So in the future there will be Freshman football and basketball teams, but after the first semester all men who have resided in Middlebury during that time will be eligible for Varsity teams.

Thirty Freshmen answered Coach Drost's call for football men immediately after the semester opened, and practice was begun at once. It was necessary to practice on a field which was under construction, except at such times as Porter Field was not being used by the Varsity—a handicap felt to a large extent. The material was light, but Coach Drost moulded a fine team into shape, one which though light, was scrappy and fast. The schedule included games with the best teams in the surrounding country, and gave the men plenty of inspiration to work.

The first game was played on Porter Field on October 13 with Troy Conference Academy as the opponent. T. C. A. with the record of only one loss in two years, and a fine team landed in Middlebury all set to trounce the Frosh. The day was ideal and a good game was looked forward to, and in this no one was disappointed. T. C. A. excelled in the aerial game but Middlebury took the honors in the other branches of the game. In the first quarter T. C. A. threatened once, but failed to score, but in the third quarter on a long forward and a criss-cross the ball was placed on Middlebury's 1-yard line from which it was carried over for the first score. A fumble prevented the visitors from scoring the point after goal. In the last quarter the Black Panther Cubs became aroused, and with Whitney and Levine carrying the ball they advanced from enemy territory into a scoring position on two successive first downs. With 2 yards to go Whitney smashed over for a touchdown, and Eddy drop-kicked the point, which was eventually to win the game. The scent of victory aroused the Frosh and they continued to progress. Fales was dropped on the visitors' 2-yard line after a 70-yard run just as the final whistle blew. The final score was 7-6 in favor of the Freshmen.

On October 20 the team journeyed to Springfield, Vermont, for its second game, and this likewise turned out a win by a 10-7 score. Springfield had a sturdy line, and showed good drilling. In Whilhelm, their quarter, they possessed a real star who gave Middlebury considerable trouble. He scored the home team's touchdown on an end run. The Freshmen scored on a punt blocked by Rich and fallen on by Eddy. Rich later drop-kicked a goal from the 30-yard line completing the scoring for the day. Patch played a strong game at half, and Naylor tackled well at end.

On October 27, the Panther Cubs met their first defeat of the season on Porter Field at the hands of the Goddard Seminary eleven. Goddard put a team on the field which outweighed the Freshmen by about 20 pounds per man, a handicap they could not surmount. Goddard scored three touchdowns in as many periods, but kicked only one goal. Shea, their quarterback, proved an elusive runner who gave the Blue no end of trouble. He scored two touchdowns and aided materially in scoring the other one. The weight of the visitors gradually wore down the strength of the Frosh, although twice the Goddard team was held for downs right in the shadow of the Middlebury goal posts. Middlebury showed an aerial attack in the last quarter which gave promise of much value in the future. Whitney starred on the defense, as did Rich, Huntington, and Naylor.

At Northfield, on November 10, the Freshman team met its second defeat of the season by the close score of 13-14. The game was close, and the result in doubt until the end. In the first period Rich recovered a blocked punt and ran 60 yards for a touchdown, but failed to kick the goal which lost a tie. In the second period a forward, Patch to Chipman, netted another touchdown and this time Rich scored the extra point. Garrity, of Norwich, made a 50-yard run through tackle in this period, placing the ball right in front of the goal line from which point Maher carried it over and kicked the goal. In the third period, Buck of Norwich ran 45 yards and again placed the ball near the goal line and Maher again carried it across and kicked the goal. In the last period neither side scored and the game ended 14-13 in favor of Norwich.

In the final game of the season on Porter Field on November 17, the U. V. M. Freshmen took the measure of the Middlebury Freshmen by the score of 19-6, in a loosely played game, in which only one touchdown was made on straight football. After Middlebury had held Vermont for downs right in the shadow of the goal post, a poor pass and a fumble gave the visitors their first touchdown, but they failed to score the try-for-point. In the second period Patch intercepted a forward and ran 48 yards to Vermont's 17-yard line, from which place a forward, Patch to Chipman netted a touchdown. Rich missed the try-for-point. With the score tied both teams were fighting gamely for a break. Whitney for Middlebury made several nice line bucks but no advance to the goal line was made. In the last quarter Vermont scored a touchdown on straight football from the 40-yard line. Captain Fogg scored the touchdown and kicked the goal. A dropkick by Vermont failed, but Middlebury had a punt blocked, Vermont scoring a touchdown on the play. There was no further scoring during the game. Patch, Rich and Whitney starred for Middlebury, and Captain Fogg and Currie played best for Vermont.

When the call for basketball men was issued, a large number of the Freshmen responded, among them quite a number of prep school stars. Coach Drost set to work at once to choose the best of the men before making the necessary cut in the squad. When this was finally done and he had settled upon his first-string five it was found that he had a combination that worked smoothly and well together. They showed promise from the beginning, and the early form continued throughout the season, for under the efficient tutelage of Coach Drost the team competed for and captured the State basketball title. It won 10 of the 12 games played, being defeated by Goddard Seminary and Springfield High School on the home courts of those teams, but winning its games with them on the home court. It scored a total of 355 points to its opponents' 254. This was a most successful season, the success of which is due in no small measure to the fine coaching of Coach Drost.

The first game of the season was played at Middlebury on December 15 with Springfield High School as the opponent. Springfield, last year's State High School champions proved a worthy rival, but the Frosh showed a five-man defense and an offense that gave them the victory by the score of 25-11. Good guarding gave Springfield only two baskets from the floor. Rich and Hasseltine starred, and the work of Eddy was very fine.

On January 5 the U. V. M. Frosh were defeated at Burlington by the score of 27-22. This was a very close game, Middlebury winning in the last few minutes of play on two baskets by Rich with the score tied. Vermont had led at half time 11-8. Rich made 16 points, leading in scoring. Hasseltine also played well.

Waterbury High School was defeated at Middlebury on January 12 by the score of 32-18. Middlebury led at half time 20-9, but the guarding in the second half was close and the scoring held lower. Roberts in his first game made three baskets and played well on the defense. Rich made 18 points in this game.

The team journeyed to Poultney on January 19 and played the crack team from T. C. A., winning 31-19. In this game the Panther Cubs showed improvement over their work in previous games, and worked very smoothly together. They led at half time 21-11 and were never headed. Play was especially fast in the second period. Eddy played well, and Rich again captured the scoring honors with 9 goals and 3 fouls.

At Middlebury on February 8, Norwich was administered a sound beating to the tune of 27-9. Norwich lacked team work, a department of the game in which Middlebury excelled. Norwich did not score a basket in the first half, the score being 11-2. Roberts was high-point man with 4 baskets and 4 fouls, and Eddy followed close behind with 10 points to his credit. Patch was in the game at forward in place of Rich who was transferred to the Varsity. Hasseltine played a great game at guard.

Vermont lost its second game to the Frosh on February 9 in McCullough Gymnasium by the score of 16-13. The play was fast with good work being displayed by both teams, and the half ending with the score at 7 all. In the second half Middlebury forged ahead and was able to maintain a slight lead to the finish. Roberts, Eddy and Hasseltine played a good game for the Panther Cubs.

On February 13 the Frosh ran up their seventh straight win at the expense of Norwich, and incidentally captured the State championship without the loss of a game. They soundly walloped the Cadet yearlings by the score of 45-17. The Blue led at the end of the first half 22-9 and were never headed. Patch led in scoring with 13 points, closely followed by Roberts with 11 and Eddy with 10.

On February 14 the winning streak was broken by Goddard Seminary on their home court by the score of 37-30. In the first half Middlebury kept in the running only by accurate shooting of fouls, the half ending with the score 20-16 in Goddard's favor. In the second half they found themselves and were well on the road to victory when Eddy and Hasseltine were put out on personals, and the spurt then stopped. Shea and Burke played well for Goddard. With the loss of Eddy and Hasseltine the team was too severely handicapped to overcome the early lead of the home team and the winning streak of seven games was broken.

But when Goddard visited Middlebury on the 19th the Middlebury Cubs avenged themselves for the recent defeat in Barre. The play was slow but the game was interesting because of the closeness of the score. At the end of the first half the score was 18 all. Toward the end of the second half Middlebury spurted and could not be stopped, ending the game with a final score of 29-25. Eddy and Patch starred.

The last home game was played on the 26th with St. Michael's Frosh as the opponent. The game was slow and uninteresting at first, but later the Panther Cubs got busy and did some scoring. Hasseltine played his usual fine game. Church was high point man with 11 points. The final score was 30-17 in favor of the home team.

On February 29, at Springfield, Vermont, the Frosh had the second defeat of the season administered to them by the local high school team whom they had previously beaten at Middlebury. The score was 39-33, and the game was one of the closest ones played during the season. The first half found the yearlings going badly but they found themselves in the second half and were cutting down the lead when the personal foul rule deprived them of the services of one man, and this handicap halted their rally. Patch, Eddy, Roberts and Hasseltine all played a fine game.

The final game of the season at Claremont, New Hampshire resulted in another win for the yearlings after one over-time period. The game ended 27-27 and in the over-time period the Frosh playing with only three men scored 3 points and held the opponents scoreless. Patch, Eddy and Roberts starred for the first-year men.

Numeral men: Rich (Captain), Hasseltine, Lance, Roberts, Patch, Eddy, McProud, Pinder (Manager).

Field Hockey Season

A new branch of athletics was started in the Women's College in the fall of 1922, which attracted much attention and enthusiasm, namely field hockey.

This fall new zeal and interest prevailed. An English hockey coach was to be with us for a week.

Miss Enid Feaver surpassed even our wildest expectations when she first crossed the hockey "pitch" (as England calls it) and put across the game to us. Her personality was very winning and her absolute knowledge of the sport certainly made the benefit derived from her short stay incalculable. The exceptional good-will of the weather man enabled us to have a long season but so much of it was spent in trying to individually better ourselves that only one set of games was played. In a final game the Seniors defeated the Sophomores by a score of 6-1. This made them champions for the season, a fitting end to their career.

THE TEAM

Right Wing—R. Southall, '27
Right Forward—M. Derrick, '27
Center Forward—F. Smith, '26
Left Forward—L. Ranquist, '25
Left Wing—E. Howard, '26
Right Half—E. Rowley, '27
Center Half—M. Currier, '24
Left Half—O. O'Hart, '27
Right Fullback—A. Hunt, '24
Left Fullback—J. Marchiano, '27
Goal Tender—M. Baldwin, '24

Basketball

The basketball season in 1923 was a long and furious one. Each class obtained the offices of one of their class brothers as coach and went right to it. The final outcome was for a long time doubtful, but the Sophomores after finally defeating the hardy Junior team were pronounced the champions.

All-Middlebury Basketball Team

Left Forward—F. Noble, '24
Right Forward—H. Sheldon,'25
Left Guard—R. Quigley, '24
Right Guard—H. Cleveland, '24
Center—A. Hatch, '25

Tennis

The tennis season was greatly hampered by the weather and the bad condition of the courts but the present Juniors finally won the championship. We hope to institute singles in place of doubles this next year.

All-Middlebury Tennis Team

H. Sheldon, '25
F. Smith, '26

Volley Ball

Although not as popular a sport as basketball the games were played through to the bitter end.

Due to the inclement weather the track and baseball seasons were never completed and so no all-Middlebury teams were chosen. We will expect unusual interest and "pep" when the season is reopened this year.

Phi Pi Epsilon

Phi Pi Epsilon, an honorary journalistic fraternity, was organized on February 11, 1924, for the purpose of encouraging men in their journalistic efforts, to give dignity and standing to journalistic work, and to coordinate the policies of the various college publications of Middlebury College.

Membership is limited to students of the men's college who hold or have held positions as editors or business managers of the publications, to Senior men who have served for two years on the staff of any of the periodicals, and the art editor of the Blue Baboon. It is intended that when the organization has been in existence for the necessary length of time that it will petition Pi Delta Epsilon, national journalistic fraternity, for a charter.

The Glee Club

This season has been an important one for the Glee Club, for it was marked by its first appearance in the Annual Intercollegiate Glee Club Contest in Carnegie Hall, New York City, in competition with twelve of the largest college and university clubs of the East. The result was highly commendable, the Middlebury aggregation taking seventh place. While in New York, the club broadcasted from Aeolian Hall, and gave several selections at the annual dance of the Vermont Society in the Hotel Pennsylvania.

Other concerts were given in Springfield, Massachusetts, Rutland, Vergennes, Northfield—in a joint concert with Norwich University, as well as in several other towns throughout the northern part of the State.

The club is unquestionably the best that Middlebury has ever sent out and much of the credit is due to Professor Larsen, whose training and interpretation developed the club to its high standard, and to Allan J. Hunter, whose leadership was always a source of inspiration to the members of the organization.

Some of the most notable plays given have been "The Admirable Crichton" by Sir James Barrie, "Green Stockings," two one-act plays "The Chinese Honeymoon" and "'Op O Me Thumb," "The Prince Chap" and "The Story of the Star."

"The Prince Chap" by Edward Peple was produced entirely under the direction of undergraduate members of the Club. "The cast was excellent and worked together harmoniously and yet with individuality", was one of the comments made by Y. K. W.

"The Story of the Star" was given for the second time this year. The play was arranged by Professor Cady. The words were taken from the groups of old plays given in the Middle Ages in England. The naive and simple presentation of the old story of Christ's birth with its reverent symbolism was rendered very effective by the medieval costumes, excellent acting and lighting.

Middlebury's Million

UNDERGRADUATE DRIVE

The spring of 1923 saw the beginning of a campaign to secure a million dollar endowment for the college. The drive started off with a rousing rally in the gymnasium which left no doubt as to the exuberant enthusiasm of the students. College spirit was supplemented by class rivalry. The songs were followed by speeches by President Moody and by members of the undergraduate committee which were received with vociferous applause. No sooner were the speeches over than the entire crowd rushed to the front of the gymnasium to sign the pledges for $91,000 which gave such an irresistible impetus to the drive as it rolled out to meet the Middlebury alumni all over the country. Meanwhile the faculty, in a less conspicuous but just as substantial way, had added financially to their continual contribution of time and effort to the college.

Nor was the loyal sacrifice of the youngest children of Middlebury in vain. Our older brothers and sisters all over the country took up the challenge and answered back the battle-cry in a way that shows there is always a corner in the heart of every son and daughter of Midd where the image of the old college row and the hills beyond to which we lift our eyes is preserved as real and fresh as in the old days.

The result was success in our effort. Our goal was seven hundred and fifty thousand dollars, which, if gained was to be matched by two hundred and fifty thousand from the General Education Board. Needless to say, we got what we went after. Day by day we here on the campus watched the thermometer register a higher and higher pecuniary temperature, while the Vermont climate was proved salubrious beyond a doubt by the barometer of enthusiasm which registered bright weather for two consecutive months.

The object of the drive was to augment our endowment by one million dollars and by so doing to insure for the faculty more adequate compensation for the devoted and untiring service which they have been giving unstintingly.

Credit for the success of the drive here is due largely to the freely-given and efficient work of the organizers, with President Moody at their head, and to the undergraduate committee.

ALUMNI DRIVE

The student drive was only a small part of the campaign. An efficient organization had been arranged, with Allen Nelson, '01, as national chairman. The alumni campaign started with well-attended banquets in various large cities, at many of which members of the faculty spoke. Our slogan was: "The month of May is the month of must." During the summer the million mark was reached, due to the use for that purpose in part of $150,000 left by Mr. Hepburn to the college. Altogether the success of the drive was due to the mighty cooperative effect of Middlebury's President, friends, trustees, faculty, alumni, and, last but not least, the undergraduate body.

Junior Week

CLASS OF 1924

An unusually successful Junior Week was conducted by the class of 1924. The first event of the week, the U. V. M. game, had to be called off on account of weather conditions, but, nothing daunted, the class invited its guests to witness the indoor sports until Jupiter Pluvius should change his mind. The Merrill Prize Speaking Contest furnished a stimulating intellectual evening, with close rivalry between the eight Sophomore men chosen to deliver their speeches. The next day the weather changed, permitting us to win from St. Lawrence by an easy margin. In the evening the crowd adjourned to the gymnasium, where "Believe Me, Xantippe" gave them an evening full of excitement and laughter. Friday was a day of athletics, beginning with the Interscholastic Track Meet tryouts and ending with the Junior Prom. The afternoon saw Middlebury narrowly miss winning from Bowdoin. The interscholastic finals showed us that there was good track material among our sub-freshman guests, Rutland High carrying off the honors far ahead of the rest. The week was brought to a fitting close by a very enjoyable joint concert of the Norwich and Middlebury Musical Clubs in Mead Memorial Chapel. The appearance of the long-anticipated 1924 KALEIDOSCOPE added to the triumph of the Junior class.

Athletics was at the fore throughout Junior Week, furnishing welcome diversion for all, especially the sub-freshmen, of whom there were a large number visiting the college. The fact was emphasized this year that Junior Week meant four days of festivity not for or by the Junior class alone, but for the entire college and its friends to participate in.

PLAY

"Believe Me, Xantippe"

"Believe Me, Xantippe," a comedy in four acts, was the play chosen for presentation by the Junior class. A more difficult play would not have taxed their resources. The one given was, however, well done. The New York setting of the act, the criminal-hero's starting-point in his wild-goose chase, is changed to a wild and rocky camping scene in the West which forms a background for some excellent acting by the daring heroine, as well as by her father and various criminals and would-be criminals. Nor can the play be passed over without a special word of praise for "Wrenn Rigley," the funny man of the story. In fact, "Believe Me, Xantippe" discovered to the audience a whole cast of clever actors heretofore too modest to thrust themselves before the public view. Great credit is due not only to the actors, but to a persevering coach, and to the committee. One seeing the enthusiasm of the audience could not doubt that the play was a success.

Announcement of Honors ..... President Moody
Tree Dedication ..... Guilford M. Austin

The class of 1923, led by their Junior marshals, Wilma Walsh and Allan Hunter, paced slowly from the library in two long lines through the lane formed by the daisy chain, and mounted the platform in front of the Old Chapel. The one hundred and four members of the largest class Middlebury has ever graduated presented an imposing appearance which was looked upon by their parents, friends, and college mates with the mingled pride and regret that every commencement brings. The audience was welcomed by the President of the class, after which the customary program followed interspersing the grave with the gay, and ending with the planting and dedication of the 1923 tree.

Several honors were announced by President Moody. Twenty-two members of the class were elected to Phi Beta Kappa. Twenty-seven were to receive their baccalaureate degree cum laude, and ten magna cum laude. High honors in various departments were earned by twenty-three of the class, and honors by nineteen. Valedictory honors were awarded to Harry G. Owen and Mary E. Loughrey, and salutatory honors to Philip M. Whitney and Vie S. Dole.

Senior Ball

June 18, 1923

The last night in the college life of the class of 1923 was spent in the "gym," the scene of so many happy memories. A sad occasion? Possibly; but Burroughs' Orchestra of St. Johnsbury did its best to dispel the gloom and seemed to succeed pretty well. The farewell revelry was enjoyed not only by the undergraduates, but by the hosts themselves and by numerous alumni.

The patrons and patronesses were President and Mrs. Paul D. Moody, Dean and Mrs. Edgar J. Wiley, Professor and Mrs. J. Stanton Kingsley, Dean Eleanor S. Ross and Mrs. Maud O. Mason.

SENIOR CHAPEL SERVICE

A new and significant custom was inaugurated by the class of 1923. After a night of light-hearted pleasure, the class which had so recently been Seniors met together in the Mead Memorial Chapel. In the stillness that comes before the dawn, they united in simple worship under the leadership of their president. As the sun rose over the eastern mountains he shone upon a scene probably unique to Middebury —a hundred comrades with the sincere hand-clasp of loyalty bidding each other a "God be with you" as they started forth to meet the world.

1926 Sophomore Hop

November 28, 1923

Thanksgiving Eve witnessed the gathering of a hundred couples in a gymnasium that had been made into a green and white fairyland. The checkerboard effect was carried out very prettily, supplemented by a background of evergreen around the walls. The music, furnished by Art Vinett's Ten Eyck Hotel Orchestra of Albany, left nothing to be desired.

The patrons and patronesses were President and Mrs. Paul D. Moody, Professor and Mrs. A. M. Kline, Professor and Mrs. J. Stanton Kingsley, Dean Eleanor S. Ross and Mrs. Maud O. Mason.

McCULLOUGH GYMNASIUM DECORATED FOR FORMAL DANCE

Informal Dances

One of the main factors in the social life at Middlebury is the informal dances which are held Saturday evenings in the McCullough Gymnasium. These are given less often in the winter and spring, when the gymnasium is in use almost every week for formal dances. The ordinary attendance is about fifty couples and the music is usually furnished by the college orchestra. These affairs are arranged for and supervised by the Social Committee of the Undergraduate Association. The informal dances furnish a convenient and enjoyable way of making money for various philanthropic purposes, and this method is occasionally utilized by the Student Government Association, the Y. W. C. A., and by the different clubs.

COMMITTEE

Scullion Ball

A delightfully novel dinner and dance was given on March 17th by the men who worked at Hepburn Commons. "Mother" Mason was the sponsor and hostess. The Hepburn Social Hall was artistically decorated in black and white and trimmed with boxes of greens. Dinner was served in the Hepburn dining hall during intermission. The jazz orchestra was of the peppiest, and all the guests were most pleasantly entertained.

The chaperones were President and Mrs. Moody, Dean and Mrs. Wiley, Dr. and Mrs. Harrington and Dean Eleanor S. Ross.

We hope that the closing of Hepburn Commons will not cause the discontinuance of this excellent newly-founded tradition.

1923 Follies

A most amusing and profitable show was staged at the Town Hall in February under Coach Morey's guidance. The college talent created as much enthusiasm in its audience as do any Broadway stars. The women's college cooperated with the men's in staging the vaudeville. It was at the "Follies" that Coach Morey made public the 1923 football schedule.

Formal Dances

The formal dance season of 1923 opened with the Waubanakee formal in McCullough Gymnasium on Saturday, February 23. This was followed by the formal dances of the different fraternities and sororities, lasting through the examination period in June. For these the gymnasium was prettily decorated, there being more or less friendly rivalry, as usual, to see who could give the most successful dance. The formal balls serve to give a little change from the informal dances, and they help raise the tone of the college social life. It is a time-honored custom for each fraternity and sorority to give a formal ball annually.

Entertainment Courses

1922-23

Friday, November 10—The Flonzaley String Quartet.
Wednesday, December 6—Harold Bauer.
Friday, January 12—Reinald Werrenrath.
Friday, February 9—47 Workshop Players of Harvard University.
Wednesday, March 7—Albert Spaulding.

The course of five entertainments which has been offered by the college every winter for several years was continued this year by a series which has not yet been surpassed at Middlebury.

The season started with the Flonzaley String Quartet, of all string quartets the acme of mechanical and artistic perfection. Having heard them once before, the Middlebury audience knew that a high class of music would be offered, nor were they disappointed.

Harold Bauer, the famous pianist, entertained his audience with a fine selection from classic composers.

Werrenrath, as always, could not fail to please, his program this time being especially accommodated to the popular taste.

A most decidedly successful innovation was made this year in the introduction of drama into the entertainment course. Students in the famous Harvard 47 Workshop presented two plays: "Pirates of Paradise" and "Catskill Dutch to Her" in a way that would have done credit to professionals. The costuming and scenery of the plays, which was all done by the students, was perfectly finished. The plays were given under the direction of Professor George P. Baker of Harvard.

The last entertainment of the series was a delightful concert by Albert Spaulding, the leading American violinist.

The entertainment course is an attempt by the college to provide for the students some of the advantages of good music and drama that would be available to city students. Since the course is partly subsidized by the trustees the student is able to hear the very best here at much less expense than would be possible in the city. The artists who come to Middlebury draw not only from the college but from the village and surrounding towns, the course thus being of benefit to the entire community.

PROGRAM 1923-24

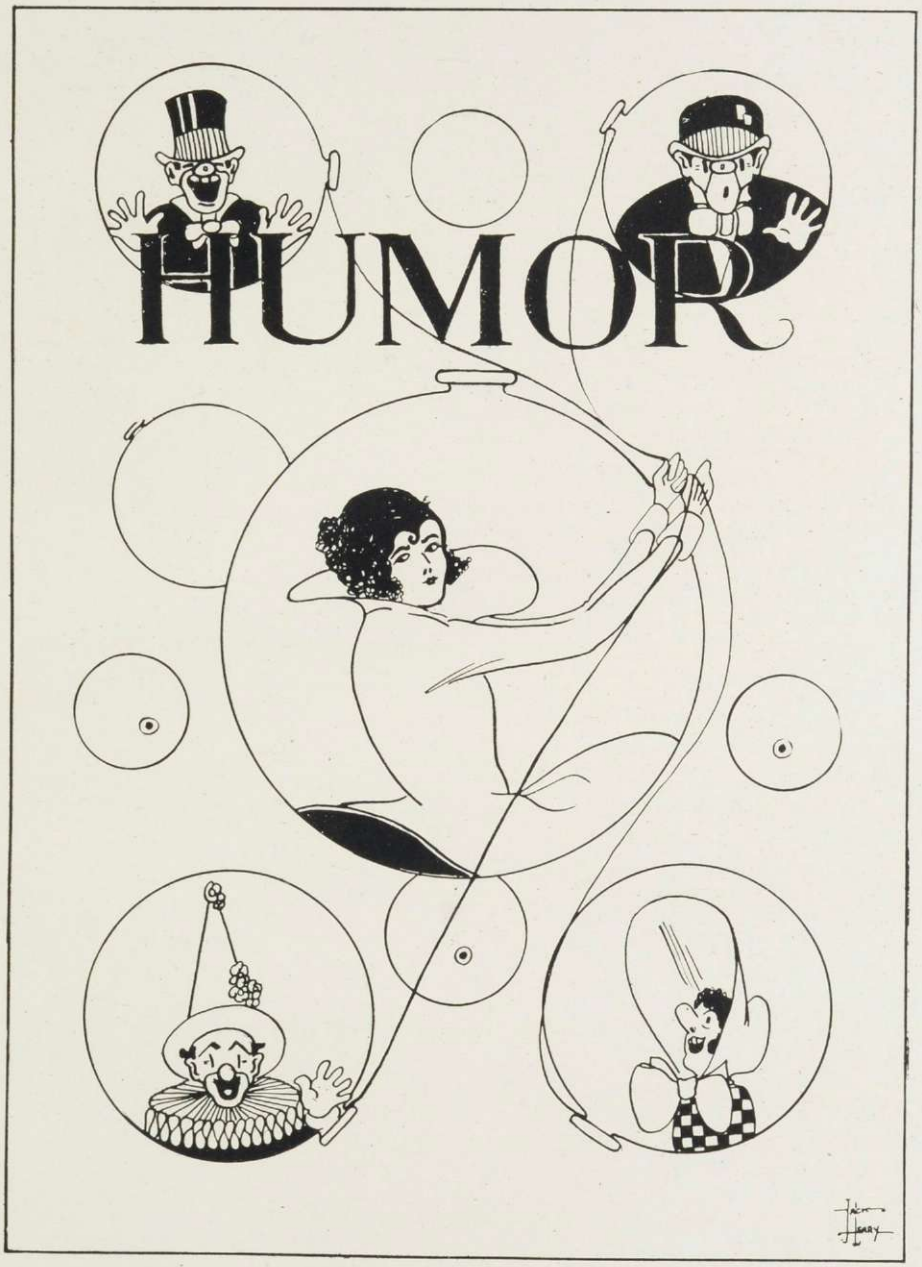
September 28—Boston Symphony Ensemble.

October 12—Merle Alcock, Contralto, Metropolitan Opera Company—Song Recital.

November 9—Sylvia Lent—Violinist.

December 11—Alberto Salvi—World's Greatest Harpist.

February 20—Ignaz Friedman, Master Pianist—Recital.



HUMOR

For many years Middlebury College has been confronted with the rumor that there are existing several sub-rosa organizations. Not wishing to leave anything out of this issue the KALEIDOSCOPE at once took up the matter with the Wm. J. Burns Detective Agency, which brought to light the following information:

THE FAITHFUL FOLLOWERS OF SANTA CLAUS

(Formerly the Fussers Club)

There has been so much criticism of late regarding the administration of the college that the KALEIDOSCOPE decided to take a referendum on the matter. The straw vote shows the following to be the ideal faculty:

THE IDEAL FACULTY

President ..... Paul O. Hastings, P. O.
Dean of Men ..... Donald D. Frederickson, R. E. D.
Dean of Women ..... William C. Browne, R. U. N. T.
Professor of English ..... Joseph Calvi

PERHAPS!!

Professor Abbott will give a cut.
Joe Calvi will go bankrupt.
Middlebury will have a baseball cage.
Some day the library will be used to study in.
Billy Farrell will be prexy.
Herpicide will save Professor Mills' hair.
Dean Ross will wear knickers.
Shakespeare is a tough course.
Physics 7 is a pipe.
Connie Moynihan will be struck speechless.
George Clark will wear a size 6 hat.
Billy Walsh is a man-hater.
Professor Perrin will be the next Dean of Women.
'25 isn't Middlebury's greatest.

BUT WE DON'T THINK SO!!!

SOCIAL SIDELIGHTS

John J. Leary was tendered a surprise party on his 14th birthday last Friday. Games were played and refreshments were served. Cyrus Hamlin entertained with humorous stories, and solo dances were given by little Joseph Laird. The party broke up and the little folks went home shortly after hearing the bedtime stories on the radio they presented to Master Leary.

Mr. John Collins is confined to his room in Starr Hall with a severe case of hangnails. Mr. Collins' case is not considered fatal, and hope is expressed for his early recovery.

Mr. Wilmarth Sherman's trunk was stolen from the Deke House last Thursday. Detective Frederickson, who is working on the case, stated last night that he had no clues but that he had some suspects to question. To date Mr. Frederickson has run down two pair of O'Sullivan's heels.

"I would like to see a pair of shoes that would fit my feet," said Wee Gorham, walking arrogantly into one of the local shops. "So would I," replied the clerk.

Mike Carboy: "I guess you have been out with worse looking fellows than I am, haven't you?"

(No answer.)

Mike: "I say, I guess that you have been out with worse looking fellows than I am, haven't you?"

Alice the Bakery Queen: "I heard you the first time, I was just trying to think."

Geo. Peck (having killed the lady's puppy while riding on his motorcycle): "Madam, I will replace the animal."

Lady: "Sir, you flatter yourself."

"Prof. Mills," said Verna Scott, "is the meanest man in the world. He borrows my pearl-handled penknife to sharpen his pencil to give me low grades."

"Dick Hazen: "What did you think of the girl that I had up for the dance?"

Frosty: "Well to be truthful, I must say that she looked like a farmer."

Dick: "Good Lord man, she's no farmer, she lives right here in the village."

ATTENTION OF PROFESSOR BRYANT

An efficiency expert on the football team who observed Gilda Gray doing her South Sea dance, while on the Columbia trip reports that he could detect considerable waist motion.

Ailene Quiff: "Nobody loves me and my hands are cold."

George Finch: "Now you know that's not so, God loves you and you can sit on your hands."

Frosh: "They say that two-thirds of a man's money must be made by the sweat of his brow."

Dot Belrose: "I think I just danced with a millionaire."

Acknowledgments

The 1925 KALEIDOSCOPE Board wishes to thank all members of the class and of the college who have contributed either directly or indirectly to the successful completion of this volume. We are also greatly indebted to Mr. Little and Mr. Hurtubise of the Fress Press Printing Company, Mr. Adler of the Canton Engraving and Electrotype Company, Miss Ellinson of the White Studio, Mr. Gove, and Mrs. David B. Morey for their kind assistance and helpful suggestions. And to our advertisers, without whom the KALEIDOSCOPE could not have been published, we can express our gratitude in no better way than to ask that they receive the consideration—and patronage—of our subscribers.

MR. D. D. F. of Cornwall-on-the-Hudson, New York, writes: "Before I took your course in Public Speaking I was working for the West Shore Railroad Company as a section-hand. I look back with joy on the day when I saw and signed your coupon. My first vision of what I might accomplish came to me when watching the train announcer in the Cornwall station directing New Yorkers to the N. Y. O. & W. Solomon County Express. Today I am respected as the official announcer of lost articles at Middlebury College informals, and have been offered a position as score announcer at the Harvard Stadium. I ascribe my success to your course, and do not hesitate to recommend it to anyone desiring to advance in any business."

What Mr. D. D. F. has accomplished, you can, too. He does not claim any especial ability. Thousands of positions are open to men of ambition and determination. Train butchers, congressmen, vocational speakers, traffic policemen, preachers, radio broadcasters, vaudeville actors, station announcers, score announcers, Chautauqua speakers, taxi drivers, and subway guards—all of these positions are constantly calling for able men. We have placed thousands in pleasant and lucrative positions. The present score announcer at the Harvard Stadium, and the train announcer in the Pennsylvania Station are graduates of our institute. You can succeed. Remember Mr. D. D. F.

Unknown to many, George Dodd is a poet. He writes sentimental little poems and sends them to the girls he knew back home. They always flop for the stuff; and when he gets a gushing letter in reply he cuts another notch in his fountain pen.

The steering wheel on Paris Fletcher's auto is full of notches. How do you figure that out?

Her: "Piggly Wiggly."

Him: "What does that mean?"

Her: "Help yourself."

Hy Frank: "Gee, I am bashful, I hang my head in shame every time I see the girls' washing in back of Pearsons."

Alberta DeCoster: "Goodness, I must speak to Dean Ross about that."

Helen Sheldon: "Is skiing hard on the feet?"

Ebbie Gollnick (who knows): "No, not on the feet."

Shorty Long: "I want the 'Life of Cæsar.'"

Miss McNeil: "I am sorry, but Brutus was ahead of you."

John Connelly: "Will you kiss me?"

Pug Marsh: "Why?"

John: "I am writing risque stories for the Baboon and I need local color."

Father: "How is it that I catch you kissing my daughter?"

Earl Samson: "I suppose you've got rubber heels."

Squanto Wilson: "I could just dance right to heaven with you."

Dot Johnson: "Can you reverse?"

Foggy Kendall: "Goodness, there is something the matter with this old tub again, it refuses to go."

Billy Walsh: "Use your head, Sam, drive up into that shady lane there. This is too conspicuous."

STUDENT GIFT BOXES

"I should say that the 'mystery' did please me—it was wonderful. All the way over from the post office I kept speculating on what in the world this box from Boston could be, and from whom. When I opened the box and saw your card I was surprised and thrilled. I do thank you for this wonderful box of eatables. It contains all that is necessary for many, many fine spreads."

Thus wrote an Exeter student to his parents in California upon receiving an S. S Pierce Co. Student Gift Box.

These Boxes contain a splendid variety of delightful delicacies and are bound to please the most discriminating.

Convenient Credit To Those Who Wish It

THERE IS DIGNITY AND EMOLUMENT in extending a life insurance service to the great mass of under-insured.

Notwithstanding the large volume of insurance written each year, only 7% of the economic value of human life in the United States is covered by life insurance.

A wonderful opportunity for the graduate who is determined to succeed and who is willing to work!

Write the National Life Insurance Company, Montpelier, Vermont, for form No. 288, showing how to interest a prospect in the building of an immediate estate.
